Phnom Penh Surrender . . . Five Years of War End

By United Press International

Phom Penh surrendered today to the Communist-led Khmer insurgents, ending five years of war that devastated Cambodia and took the lives of a quarter million persons.

Fall of the city closed a painful chapter in American history.

The victorious rebel forces spurned government offers Wednesday to negotiate a cease-fire so they could enter Phnom Penh "as conquerors." The black-shirted insurgents were greeted by Cambodians waving flags and streamers as they moved into the city through a sea of white surrender flags.

Jubilant Khmer Rouge soldiers fired shots into the air as they marched through the streets or rode in captured American Jeeps.

There were fears that the rebel forces would carry out a bloodbath when they stormed into Phnom Penh after a three and a half month siege, but the International Committee of the Red Cross said in Geneva the Communist forces were respecting the neutrality of the Royal Phnom Hotel.

About 2,000 persons, including some Americans, United Nations and relief officials and other foreigners, were crowded into the hotel. The Red Cross, which declared the hotel a neutral zone Wednesday, said many of the persons at the hotel were wounded or sick.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, in a dispatch from Peking, said Prince Norodom Sihanouk announced he will be chief of state in Cambodia but that direct power will be wielded by Khieu Samphan, commander of the Khmer Rouge forces. Sihanouk also said Cambodia would join the nonaligned bloc of nations.

Khieu Samphan, a hardline Communist closely allied to China —but believed to be first of all a nationalist —entered the capital with his troops and broadcast an appeal for calm. He urged all government forces to lay down their arms.

There was no immediate reaction from the U.S. government to the fall of Phnom Penh but in Saigon there was dismay among South Vietnamese who saw it as a portent of the future. Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh called again for the resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu before Saigon "becomes another Phnom Penh."

Australia, citing the "realities of the situation," promptly reconized the new Khmer Rouge government. Japan said it would do so shortly. Britain said it would wait to see what kind of government was formed in Phnom Penh. China and the Soviet Union merely reported the "liberation of Phnom Penh."

Thailand closed its borders to halt the exodus of Cambodian refugees —but at least 11 Cambodian air force planes landed today in Thailand with 140 refugees including a Cambodian general and 29 children. Thailand said it would recognize the Khmer Rouge government when there is formal announcement of its formation.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines said the fall of the American-supported Cambodian government made it necessary for the Philippines to review its ties with the United States in view of the developments in Indochina and hinted he would turn to the Soviet Union and China.

The first order given by insurgent spokesmen who took over Radio Phnom Penh was for the surrender of senior officials. All civil servants and government functionaries were ordered to return to work as usual Friday morning.

"We enter Phnom Penh as conquerors and we have not come here to speak about peace with the traitors of the Phnom Penh clique," said a radio announcer speaking for the insurgents.

The announcer ordered generals and high ranking government officials to report to the downtown Information Ministry under a white flag of surrender. The radio said Phnom Penh commander Gen. Chhim Chhuon and Gen. Lon Non, brother of exiled president Lon Nol, were the first to surrender.

Rebel broadcasters indicated no other high-ranking officials of the Phnom Penh government had arrived.

Three hours after the first surrender order, the rebel calls for the presence of former government leaders increased in number and grew more insistent.

The formal surrender order was made over Radio Phnom Penh at 1 p.m. (1 a.m. EDT) by Brig. Gen. Mey Sichan, chief of operations of the Cambodian armed forces. He said soldiers and government functionaries should cease all combat.Insurgent troops with loudspeakers moved through the street with appeals for calm.

"I order, after an appeal by the (Buddhist) bonzes, the three arms of the armed forces of the Khmer Republic to lay down their arms and invite representatives of the Khmers of the other side to take power.

"The doors to Phnom Penh and other province capitals are open to them.

"I ask the population in Phnom Penh and in the provinces to stay calm.

"Representatives of the (government) army are trying to find ways to negotiate with the Khmers of the other side in order to guarantee security."

UPI reporters in Phnom Penh said the surrender came shortly after dawn when the rebel forces swept across the city. Cambodian naval units across the Mekong River had already raised white flags. The last battle was for the three-story tall Information Ministry housing Phom Penh Radio.

Experts on the Cambodian situation said they believed the first order of business for the rebels on taking control of the nation would be a massive program of arrests. They expected the government to be run initially by a revolutionary military committee.

In foreign affairs, the new government was expected to break diplomatic ties with the United States, South Vietnam, Thailand and all other nations which maintained embassies during the last months of the Cambodian war.

Rival Calls for Thieu's Resignation

SAIGON (UPI) — Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh, an arch political rival of President Nguyen Van Thieu, called again today for Thieu's resignation before Saigon "becomes another Phnom Penh."

Some government officials expressed fear that the fall of Phnom Penh was a prelude to events in Saigon.

Minh told newsmen he is ready to head a new government of national reconciliation with the Viet Cong, "because that has always been my stand."

Minh is considered the leader of the so-called third force composed of elements who opposed the Thieu government and the Communists.

American officials on orders from President Ford were organizing a massive evacuation of U.S. citizens from Saigon with a warning that the time to make the break is running out.

A U.S. Embassy source said earlier this week there were about 5,000 Americans in Vietnam but put the figure today as fewer than 4,000.

On the worsening military front Communist forces moved their heaviest artillery into the Mekong Delta for the first time and used it to destroy a government naval transport. Large Communist forces also were poised some 23 miles northeast of Saigon.

Minh, who led the 1963 coup that toppled the government of Ngo Dinh Diem, said Thieu's continuation in power would bring the collapse of South Vietnam.

"The present situation is not hopeless," Minh told a luncheon he held for reporters at Thu Duc, six miles north of Saigon.

President Ford tells newspaper editors $722 million in arms aid would lead to a negotiated settlement of Vietnam war. Story Page 3.

"Non-Communist Vietnamese can still negotiate a relatively good political solution with the Communists within the framework of the Paris peace accords. But the urgent problem now is that the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu should resign, for the national interest, and in Saigon, there should be a new government which can implement the agreement.

"The remaining time is short," he said. "With the continuation in power of Thieu, very soon Saigon will become another Phnom Penh."

A South Vietnamese government official said the surrender by Cambodian officials to the rebels "was a psychological shock for the army and the people of South Vietnam who have been fighting the Communists" and who have seen two-thirds of their country fall to North Vietnam.

U.S. sources said today that American officials will open a special processing center at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airbase by Saturday to cut through red tape and expedite the evacuation of American citizens and their Vietnamese families.

The official said they will leave on U.S. military flights to the United States. American officials have denied an "evacuation" is underway and said the departure is voluntary.

The source said the creation of the processing center was to aid Americans with Vietnamese families cut through government red tape. However, other nations, including Britain, are reportedly drawing up plans with the U.S.Embassy for a final evacuation of foreigners.

Maj. Gen. Homer Smith, the U.S. military attache and the highest-ranking American officer in Vietnam, warned an assembly of Americans Wednesday in Saigon, "I can tell you that the longer you stay here the more difficult it's going to be in terms of you and your families to get out of here."

The U.S. embassy beginning Friday will mount an airlift for retired American military personnel and their families to the United States at no cost.

President Ford ordered that "nonessential" American personnel still in Saigon be withdrawn. While the exact number to be evacuated is not known, it is believed that a sizeable number of the colony of 5,500 Americans will be removed.

Evacuation plans call first for the pullout of retired American military personnel working on defense department contracts as private citizens. Congressional legislation prohibits the use of American soldiers on active duty.

Farewell To Fading Old Lady

By Leon Daniel

SAIGON (UPI) — Hope was running out for the this tragic city, a painted old lady fading fast, so it seemed the time had come to bid her a fond farewell.

I took a day off to do it.

It seemed appropriate to start wih strong coffee, laced with a lot of milk and coarse sugar, on the veranda of the Continental Palace, a special hotel whose spinning fans hanging from high ceilings in ornately ugly rooms somehow attest to the establishment's integrity.

The veranda provides a view of one of the most fascinating streets in the Orient, one that ranks with Patpong in Bangkok, Bugis in Singapore, and even Tokyo's glittering Ginza.

The street is Tu Do, which in Vietnamese means "freedom."

When I first came to Saigon nine years ago, Tu Do Street already had been corrupted, but it was a corruption we Americans shared in establishing with our willing Vietnamese hosts.

Tu Do Street was tawdry then, as it is now, but in those days the garish bars and the pretty painted girls seemed a tolerable by-product of a lofty purpose, described by the late President Lyndon Johnson as "preventing the success of aggression."

On the hotel veranda I was approached by a girl who could not have been more than 8, the age of my daughter now, when I first met her. She was then a charming child, bright-eyed but street-wise. She is now a dull-eyed teen-age hustler.

I had a late lunch at the Brink, which on the day I arrived here in 1966 was blasted by Communist sappers at terrible cost in lives of the U.S. Army officers who were billeted here.

In those days the Brink was jammed with ambitious young officers. They were rear-echelon types, but many of them hankered for field commands and combat assignments. Monday the Brink was almost empty.

It was, for me, a lonely, depressing lunch, which I got through by reading in the Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes about the imminent fall of Cambodia.

Dinner was at a French restaurant, where the proprietress was embarrassed by her short menu and lack of a wine list.

My companions at the table were journalists who had gathered to talk of when and how we would leave when the time came. We also talked of Vietnamese friends, ones we knew could leave with us and some we were sadly certain could not.

Saigon, heavily rouged with the blood of too many battles, is depleted and exhausted, but she is not yet finished. Farewells to a valued mistress should be accomplished slowly, and a day off to do it seemed appropriate.

Humanitarian Monies Stalled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is holding up $200 million in humanitarian and evacuation funds because several members say the administration is not withdrawing Americans fast enough from South Vietnam.

Those members succeeded Wednesday in postponing until at least later today a committee vote on the funds while seeking White House assurance that the evacuation of Americans will be speeded up.

The Senate Armed Services Committee called a meeting to consider a possible compromise on President Ford's request of $722 million in emergency military aid for South Vietnam. Chairman John C. Stennis predicted the panel would recommend some aid.

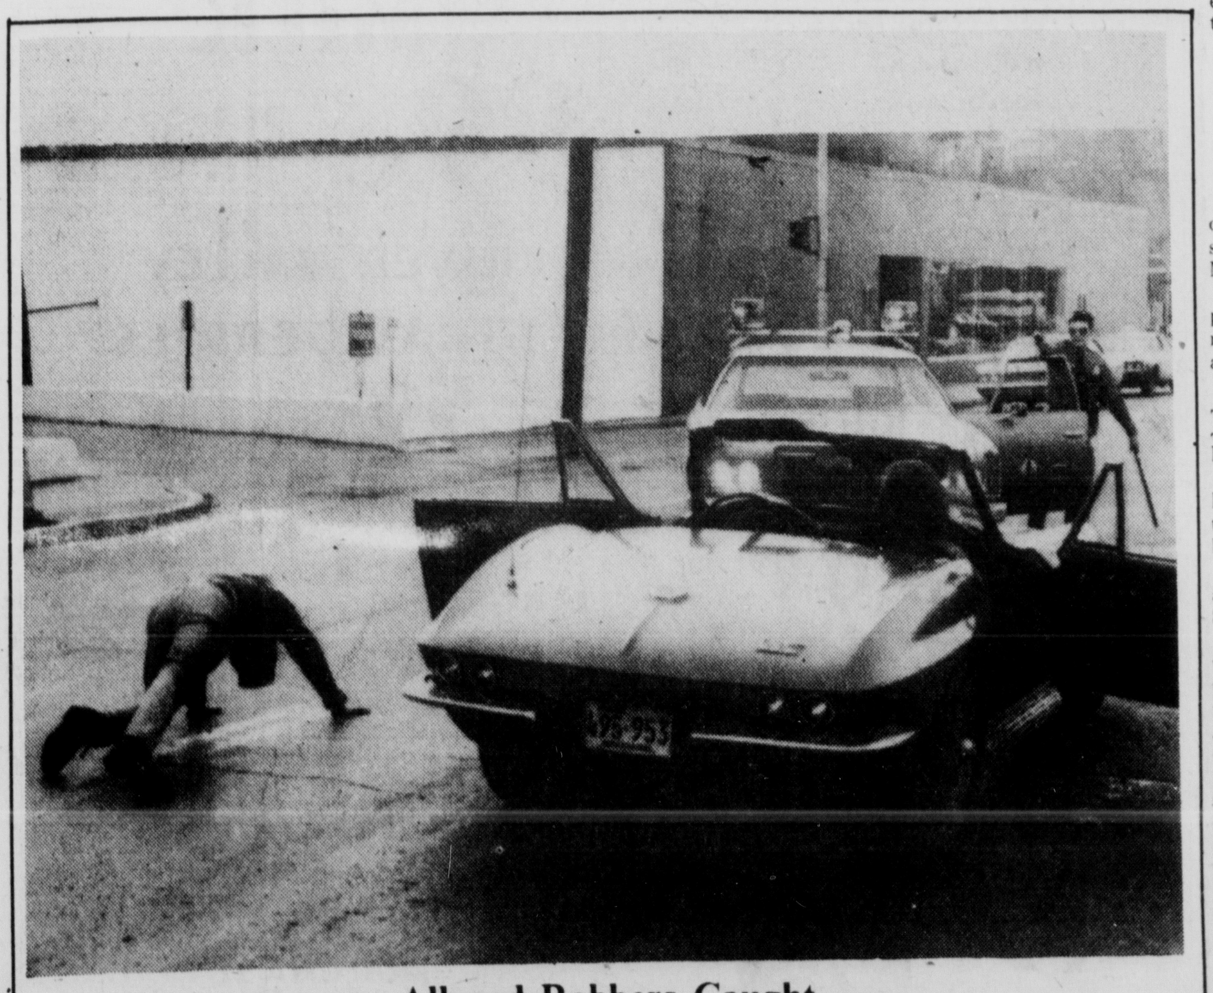

The House International Relations Committee was meeting to mark up and vote on a proposal authorizing an additional $73 million in humanitarian aid for Saigon.

Sen. John Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, announced late Wednesday that panel was delaying until late today a vote on the proposed $200 million to be used by President Ford to evacuate 5,000 Americans from South Vietnam and up to 174,000 South Vietnamese, and to render humanitarian assistance.

Sparkman said the delay might continue beyond today if satisfactory assurances are not received.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, declared after the committee meeting that evacuation plans of the U.S. ambassador in Saigon, Graham Martin, would still leave 3,000 Americans in there on May 1.

"Martin is dragging his feet. The plans he has put forward are not adequate," Clark said.

Closed Circuit TV In Ellenville Classrooms

ELLENVILLE

Classrooms of the central building complex of the Ellenville Central School District will be wired for closed circuit and cable television when pupils return in September.

The board of education approved Tuesday night $10,000 for the project, which will be done during the summer months. James D. Evergetis, superintendent of schools, expressed thanks to Channel Master Corp. of Ellenville for making available without cost some $2,000 worth of wire and materials for the project, meaning in effect that the district will benefit from a $12,000 project.

The board also approved a visit from an accreditation team from the Middle Atlantic States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to the high school during the 1976-77 school year. Accreditation is used as a guideline by college admissions officers and also indicated to the community that the s chool is meeting recognized professional standards, Evergetis said.

The board authorized Business Manager Sol Sashin to advertise for bids on a vacated school building in Phillipsport in the Town of Mamakating. The building, a former elementary school abandoned several years ago, comes with a small piece of property.

Sashin was also given authority to advertise for bids on athletic supplies and equipment for the district, dependent on passage of the 1975-76 school budget.

In other action the board:

• Authorized Evergetis to purchase textbooks for the 1975-76 school year and to advertise for workers for the outdoor swimming pool during the summer months, both items dependent on passage of the budget.

• Accepted the resignations of Mrs. Patricia Sinick, Miss Kathleen Sayia, Mrs. Sari Powazek and Mrs. Freda Vaon and the retirement of Mrs. Mildred Solomon after 14 years in the district's schools.

• Approved the permanent appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Trachtenberg, a clerk-typist in the district business office.

• Added Albert Koplik, Barbara Youngmen and Marianne Markle to the substitute teacher list.

• Gave tenure appointments to 17 teachers and appointed six custodians to probationary Civil Service positions.

Russian Chess Propaganda

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) — The executive director of the American Chess Federation said Wednesday he believes new world champion Antoly Karpov's challenge to Bobby Fischer was only a "Russian propaganda ploy."

Karpov has challenged Fischer to the match outside International Chess Federation involvement with rules the two men would agree on.

According to reports from chess officials in Manila, Fischer is willing to discuss terms for the match.

Edmund M. Edmundson of the American Chess Federation expressed some exasperation that American chess officials had not seen copies of the Karpov challenge,

"I would say it was probably a Russian propaganda ploy," he said. "Nobody has furnished me with a statement, and it's hard to say what it means when we don't know the full story.

"Karpov has no authority to make agreements at all," he said. "The only way we'll ever know if they're going to play is for them to sit down and discuss it.

"Regretably, I don't think it will happen. It hasn't been the policy of the Soviet Chess Federation or the Sports Ministry to let anyone meet in a free and open discussion and make agreements."

Edmundson added, however, "I think it's time for them to meet. Neither myself nor the American Chess Federation or FIDE (the International Chess Federation) have been involved in the discussion since April 3, and I think the likelihood is slim."

The 22-year-old Karpov was declared champion by default April 3 when Fischer refused to accept the federation's rules for a $5 million championship match in Manila.

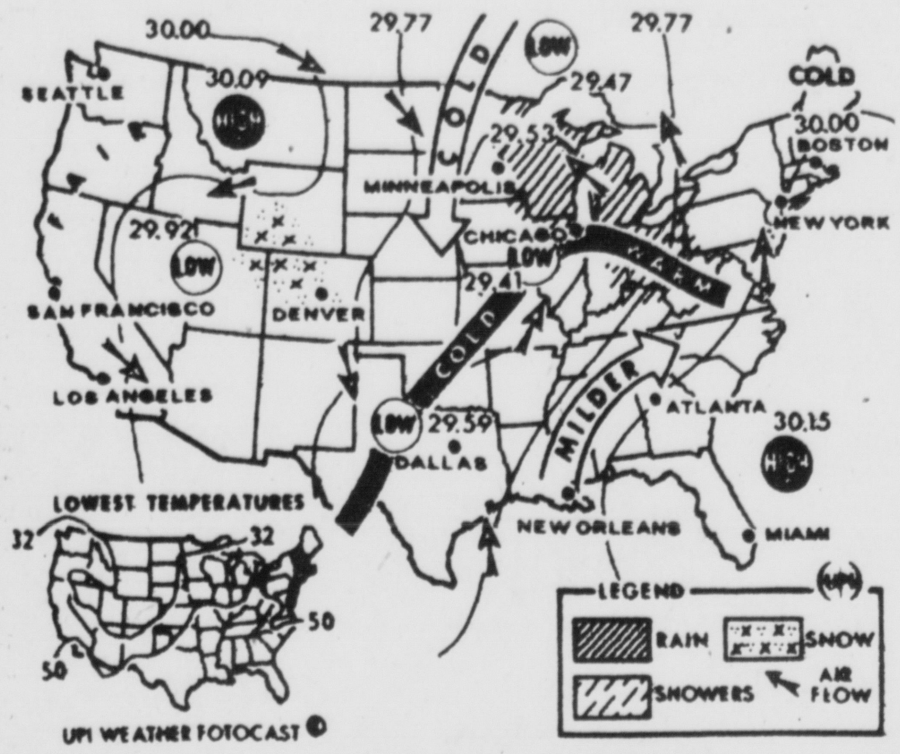

According to Florencio Campomanes, the Filipino deputy president of the International Chess Federation, Fischer Monday broke the silence he had maintained since being stripped of the world title.

Campomanes said Fischer called from California to say he was willing to meet Karpov and discuss terms for the match.

Robber Bags $3,700 From Dutchess Bank

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Authorities in this Dutchess County village continued their search today for the gunman who stole $3,700 Wednesday from a branch of the Bankers Trust Co.

Sheriff's deputies said a tall, white male wearing a floppy beach hat, denim overalls and a phony mustache told a bank teller, "I'd like a new 100-dollar bill." Then, he added, "By the way, give me all the rest of your money."

He carried a small hand gun, deputies said, but did not fire it.

Bank officials said the unidentified teller emptied her drawer, but the thief's bag was too small. He stuffed in all the bills he could and then sauntered out of the building.

No alarm sounded but another teller sensed something was wrong and ran outside. However, there was no sign of the bandit.

Road blocks were temporarily set up in the area and a helicopter was used in the search.

An Uneasy Truce Prevails in Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — Sporadic rifle fire today threatened a shaky truce ending four days of fighting between Palestinians and right-wing militiamen which left almost 400 persons dead or wounded.

But the government-arranged ceasefire, which went into effect Wednesday night, appeared sufficiently stable to allow residents to venture into the streets.

Banks, schools and many stores remained closed but some businesses and smaller shops reopened. A few cafes and restaurants served customers, but kept their pavement tables and chairs stacked.

Taxis and private cars crowded some streets, clogged with tons of uncollected garbage, but municipal buses remained off the road.

At one of the main trouble spots, the Tal Zaater refugee camp, a Palestinian spokesman said, "It's been all quiet."

In neighboring Chiyeh, scattered small arms fire still kept people indoors.

Premier Rashid Solh, who announced the truce between the Palestinians and right-wing Phalangists, said it would be enforced with an "iron fist" by Lebanese security forces.

Palestinian and Phalangist leaders also went on the air and broadcast appeals for order.

Tentative police figures put the casualty toll for the four days of bombing, shelling and street fighting at 132 dead and more than 250 wounded.

The fighting began when Phalangist militia units attacked a Palestinian bus Sunday. Twenty-seven persons died in that attack.

A Palestinian spokesman called the cease-fire, "a good first step towards calming the situation."

But, he added," it is only a first step as there are other outstanding questions still to be settled."

The strongly anti-Communist Phalangists, a private political party, say the Palestinians have too much control over sections of Lebanon bordering Israel.

They have also condemned guerrilla raids into Israel which have brought Israeli reprisal attacks on Lebanese villagers.

The end to the fighting meant a slow return to normal for the citizens of Beirut, who had locked themselves in their homes while the thump of mortars and rattle of machineguns filled the streets day and night.

Security forces in armored cars patrolled the streets — littered with debris from the fighting —and manned intersections.

In and around the Palestinian refugee camps on Beirut's outskirts, where the heaviest clashes occurred, residents began sifting through the rubble of bombed-out homes. An occasional sniper's bullet whistled overhead, scattering civilians as guerrillas rushed forward to return the fire.

Medical First For Heart Patient

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Doctors said today they patched a hole in the heart of a 17-year-old girl without using general anesthesia and without resorting to open-heart surgery. They said it was a historic medical first.

Ochsner Foundation Hospital said a surgeon and a heart specialist implanted a steel and dacron umbrella-like device in the heart of Suzette Marie Creppel of New Orleans on April 8. She is in fine condition, the hospital said.

The hospital said doctors made a small incision in her right leg and passed a catheter, or tube, through a large vein leading to her heart to correct the defect, a hole in her heart's wall, she was born with.

At the end of the catheter was a capsule containing two small umbrellas an inch and a half in diameter when opened.

By manipulating the controls of the device outside her body, the two umbrellas expanded on either side of the defect between the upper chambers of her heart, sealing the hole and making it unnecessary for her to undergo open-heart surgery.

"The procedure could eliminate the need for open-heart surgery to correct certain heart defects in children," the hospital said.

The 90-minute medical procedure was carried out by Dr. Terry King, a pediatric cardiologist, and Dr. Noel Mills, a cardiovascular surgeon. Although the entire procedure took 90 minutes, doctors needed but seven minutes to actually implant the umbrellas.

The hospital said King and Mills were developing several of the devices to correct three separate types of heart defects.

"The project was conceived in hopes of finding a safe method for repair of heart defects such as atrial septal defects (defective heart walls) using cardiac cathetrization techniques which potentially would be less costly, shorten the hospital stay and eliminate the need of a heart-lung machine," King said.

'Aid Would End War'... Ford Tells Editors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, contending the United States has an obligation to South Vietnam, says he is "absolutely convinced" that the $722 million in arms aid he requested would lead to a negotiated settlement of the war.

"The United States did not carry out its commitment in the supplying of military hardware and economic aid to South Vietnam" in the same way that Moscow and Peking backed Hanoi, Ford said.

"I wish we had," he said. "I think if we had, this present tragic situation in South Vietnam would not have occurred."

Displaying his frustration Wednesday in a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Ford said, "The human tragedy of South Vietnam just makes me sick every day I hear about it, read about it, and see it.

"I am absolutely convinced if Congress made available $722 million in military assistance" in a few days "the South Vietnamese could stabilize the military situation in South Vietnam today."

He likened the situation in Vietnam to "the last minute of the last quarter of the game."

"I don't think we can blame the Soviet Union, and the People's Republic of China for supplying North Vietnam," Ford said.

"If we had done with our allies what we had promised, I think this whole tragedy could have been eliminated."

Most of the questions centered on South Vietnam and Cambodia. Ford said Prince Norodom Sihanouk is "in no position" to negotiate a Cambodian settlement. He said leaders in Phnom Penh had asked for a cease-fire and that the United States would do what it could to get a negotiated settlement.

He disclosed that he had ordered evacuation of all nonessential American civilians in South Vietnam.

Ford said he would be reluctant to make public the confidential exchanges between former President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu during the peace negotiations. He insisted no secret commitments were made to South Vietnam that differed in substance from Nixon's public policy statements.

Gross Product . . . Bad News

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every three months, the Commerce Department officially tells the public how the nation is doing economically.

It's called the Gross National Product, and the quarterly figures were to be released today. The worst unemployment in 34 years and the deepest quarterly decline in industrial production since 1937-38 suggests that GNP, the market value of the nation's output in goods and services, can be only bad.

Administration officials have been making public statements to try to ease the impact of the GNP figures. Assistant Commerce Secretary James Pate said GNP in January-March would be 10 percent lower in real terms than the preceding three months.

"This is going to be hailed as one of the sharpest declines since 1946 and perhaps one of the largest declines since the Great Depression," said Pate.

The GNP in the fourth quarter of 1974 declined at an annual rate of 9.1 percent, the sharpest since a 9.2 percent decline in the first quarter of 1958, also a recessionary period.

The fastest decline since the Depression was a 12 percent drop in 1946 under the unusual circumstances of the nation's industry retooling from wartime production to consumer goods. Machines used for making tanks, for instance, had to be overhauled and rebuilt for making cars.

The GNP slump in late 1974 resulted from slipping production plus inflation that shot prices up a record 14.4 percent.

MOBSTER'S MANSION . . . 24 ROOMS, THREE SAFES

ANTIQUES WHERE ONCE A GANGSTER LIVED

Capone's Home Restored

PINE HILL, N.J. (UPI) — Al Capone would sit in his sun room and talk over business while his boys doled out cash from the vault in the back room to finance private gambling parties in the third-floor ballroom.

The house was next to a sprawling lake that edged up to the sloping grounds of the his estate, landscaped with exotic flowers and shrubs brought as gifts to the underworld king.

Stanley Anderson, a bachelor in his 40s who now owns the 24room house, pointed to a mound of earth leading away from the foot of the bridge, supposedly a tunnel for escape.

Anderson hasn't had time to dig it up to see if there is a tunnel. Neither has he excavated a room-size area of the rose garden on the other side of the mansion where nothing will grow.

"They say Benjamin 'Doc' Blanchard—the scientist who perfected the radar system during World War II—had an underground laboratory somewhere on the grounds. That may be it in the rose garden," Anderson said, settled next to a stuffed bear holding an ashtray in the sun room.

Blanchard bought the estate in the 1940s.

"There also are supposed to be three safes in this house where Blanchard kept his money, but I've only found two," said Anderson, a personnel director for Owens-Corning Fiberglass in Barrington, N.J. He bought the decaying, ratinfested home for $40,000 after Blanchard's senile wife died in the early 70s. In the past year he spent more than $130,000 restoring the inside.

In the process, he said, "I threw out a hand-painted vase and later found a note from Blanchard's wife saying it was valued at about $7,000.".

"And I threw away all those old radio tubes from Blanchard's workshop by the vault that were worth thousands of dollars. The place was such a mess when I bought it, that I just wanted to get the stuff out of here."

Anderson, who dabbles in real estate, has furnished the rooms entirely with antiques.

Now he plans to convert part of the house into another apartment and begin fixing up the outside and the enclosed courtyard. But he might sell if he gets a $198,000 offer.

A reputed underworld figure offered him about $180,000 around Christmas. "But he was convicted just last month. I found out the mob wanted to turn the place back into a club —maybe for sentimental reasons."

200 Years Ago, Revisited

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) — British regiments are drilling on the greens, and not far away the Americans are arming themselves with muskets, according to reports circulating in the villages and towns on the San Francisco Peninsula.

But the "troops" are all high school students. More that 2,000 of them are preparing for a reenactment of the historic Battle of Lexington and Concord, on Friday.

The 1975 version of the famous battle that started the Revolution 200 years ago will be a one-third scale reenactment of the campaign of April 19, 1775.

"We think people should really get involved in the history of our country and what it is all about," says Larry Hyink, a social studies teacher who is responsible for the big Bicentennial event.

"This thing involves 2,200 kids," says Hyink. "The moth ers of the 750 British troops are busy sewing their redcoats. We have 250 people just to referee the battle."

Every detail of the original battle has been thoroughly researched, down to the names of the participants. "Nearly every student knows who he represents," Hyink says.

The Minutemen are talking about "one if by sea, two if by land." They are practicing the technique of loading and firing the patch and ball musket.

Hyink said his son, a history major at San Francisco State University and a simulation game enthusiast, came up with the ideal for a live replay of the Revolutionary battle.

"A lot of people play board games. We decided to move the simulation game off the card table and into reality," says Hyink. "This is really a game. We don't know yet who will win."

Assembing before dawn on a high school campus representing Boston, a column of British Redcoats will march toward the "Lexington Green" on another campus. It was at Lexington Green that the first shot of the Revolution was fired. About 50 Minutemen will be waiting to engage in that valiant effort against the British army.

As the relief columns of British move toward Concord — another high school campus — for the second major confrontation of the day, the smaller groups of militiamen will gather, as they did in the Middlesex villages, some with fifes and drums playing, to do battle for freedom.

The militiamen will be wearing the tricornered hats of the colonials. They will carry unit flags similar to those of the revolutionary army.

Muskets and other weapons have to be made of a breakable substance, it has been decided —to make sure no one is hurt even by stumbling over his weapon —and complex rules have been laid down. The sponsors note that the battle of Lexington and Concord was a complex series of events.

Because the weapons of 1775 fired only about 40 times before fouling, each participant will get 40 tickets representing bullets. When he fires —by shouting "bang" —an umpire takes a ticket.

The weapons of 1775 were rather inaccurate. It is estimated only one in 100 shots hit anybody. So, when an umpire has collected 100 tickets he takes an armband from a nearby participant, putting that man out of action as dead or wounded.

At the end of the battle, scores will be tallied to see who won the war.

Sex Discrimation In Health Insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health insurance companies call women "clunkers," "losers" and "bad risks" for coverage, said a study released recently by organized labor supporters of national health insurance.

The reasons given are women use health care services more than men, see doctors more often, have more surgery and bear children, said the unusual study comparing health insurance coverage by sex.

"Women are placed in double jeopardy by many companies," said the study by Olga Madar, president of the two-year-old Coalition of Labor Union Women.

"Not only are they subject to the usual riders, many medical treatments exclusive to women, such as disorders of the female reproductive system, are excluded."

Riders are technical terms used to describe the practice of refusing payment for any disease or disability that has affected the insured person prior to the time an insurance contract is signed.

Married women and divorced women usually can't do as well in coverage as married men and divorced men, she said.

Because women use more health services and thus require more claims compensations than men, "commercial health insurance companies call women 'clunkers,'" the study said. Particularly because of materinity care, they are not considered the best insurance risks.

The study said a 1971 public health survey indicates that men and women lose almost the same time from work due to disabilities, including childbirth and complications from pregnancies. But although women make up 40 percent of the nation's work force, they are often unable to get adequate health and disability insurance, it said.

Replacement Costs

The debate in Congress over the administration's request for additional military aid to South Vietnam at this historic juncture in the war has an interesting sidelight. This is the question as to how much military equipment, previously supplied by the United States, was abandoned to the Communists in their current sweeping offensive.

High State Department and Pentagon officials reportedly told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a briefing that the abandoned equipment was valued at an estimated one billion dollars. According to Sen. Frank Church, a member of the Committee, the Pentagon spokesman — Maj. Gen. John R.D. Cleland Jr., vice director for operations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — acknowledged that this figure is based on depreciated value rather than the replacement cost.

This underlies Church's conclusion that the equipment abandoned actually is worth from 5 to 10 billion by the realistic standard of the cost of replacing it. Church arrives at this figure on the basis of the Pentagon's alleged practice of depreciating military equipment to 10 or 20 per cent of replacement cost.

An explanation should be forthcoming from the Pentagon. The official position has been that another half billion or so in military aid might turn the tide against the Communists and set the stage for a political settlement. This argument is greatly weakened by indications that material just abandoned by the South Vietnamese could not be replaced for less than 5 to 10 billion dollars.

Food Giveaways

In Indianapolis a farmer gave away 2,000 live hens because it was costing him more to feed them than their eggs were worth. In Boston the owner of a trawler gave away 27,000 pounds of freshly caught pollock because he figured the wholesale price of 19 cents a pound was an insult and preferred the giveaway to collecting the $2,700 he would have received for his catch.

These incidents, like the dumping of milk and the mass burial of beef carcasses in recent times, have overtones that disturbingly echo the depression of the 1930s. The giveaways in Indianapolis and Boston differ strikingly in one respect, however, from the other recent episodes: they involved no destruction of food, but instead put it in the hands of people who presumably needed it.

The distinction is a very important one. When the cost-price squeeze catches up with producers, the overriding objective should be to put unmarketable food to use — not waste it. The Boston and Indianapolis protests were no less effective because this was done instead of using destructive protest methods.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Story of Jackie's Second Marriage

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—The intimate, human story can now be told of the world's most publicized marriage—the life together of Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis.

Our information comes from sources so close to the celebrated couple that the details cannot be doubted.

The world was startled when the multimillionaire shipping tycoon in 1968 married the widow of the martyred President John F. Kennedy.

Onassis was a swarthy, gnome-like man, two inches shorter and 24 years older than the beautiful Jackie. For the Kennedy legions, who had looked upon her as the keeper of Camelot, it was the end of a glorious era.

She had been afraid, her friends said, that she might tarnish Kennedy's memory if she became Mrs. Anybody Else. But she had succumbed they suggested, to Ari's submerged irresistibility.

Our sources swear, on the contrary, it was Jackie who pursued Ari. As they recall the circumstances, Onassis got into a hot argument with his paramour, the tempestuous soprano Maria Callas, during a Caribbean cruise in the summer of 1968. She flew off in a fury to New York City.

About the same time, according to intimates, Jackie caught a commercial flight to the Virgin Islands and arranged an invitation to join Onassis on his yacht. A couple months later, he signed a premarital contract which, our sources say, awarded her $3 million in tax-free bonds. They were married on October 20, 1968, on his private Aegean island of Skorpios.

The old tycoon enjoyed the romantic conquest of the exquisite Jacqueline, who was regarded as one of the world's most desirable women, his friends say. But it was not at all a happy marriage.

They confirm The New York Times report that Onassis wanted a divorce. He had asked his confidant, John Meyer, to hire a private detective to seek evidence that could be used in a divorce proceeding. Lawyers had also been approached in both Greece and the United States to explore the legal obstacles to a divorce.

What concerned Onassis the most, apparetnly, were the financial consequences, for he had quietly determined, according to our sources, that the Greek Orthodox Church would allow him to dissolve the marriage on the simple grounds of incompatibility.

Apparently, Jackie received the message that the marriage was on the rocks. While she was vacationing with friends on Antiqua in the British West Indies, aide Nancy Tuckerman called Onassis to give a routine report on Jackie's doings and to ask how long she should stay.

Sources with direct knowledge of the incident say he retorted: "Tell her to stay indefinitely."

Jackie's friends tell of an earlier quarrel over an incident in Rome involving movie star Elizabeth Taylor. Onassis and the actress were lunching together, along with other friends, when an inturder began annoying Ms. Taylor. Gallantly, Onassis splashed a glass of champagne in the intruder's face.

Jackie was embarrassed. "I am ashamed of you." she told Ari. She protested that "the children had seen news accounts" of the incident.

She frequently complained to her friends about Ari. "He is such a loner," she said. His tastes, she thought, were vulgar. She told of wearing a diamond he had picked out for her. She was mortified when a friend asked derisively: "What is THAT?" She also complained about being "stuck on Skorpios all summer long."

Worst of all, they couldn't stand each other's friends. Ari found Jackie's crowd too sophisticated, too jaded. He was even heard, not too discreetly, calling them "faggots."

One friend of Jackie's sister, Lee Radziwill, showed up at Skorpios and stayed for months. Ari complained, shaking his head hopelessly, that the uninvited guest had been caught cutting his wrist, dipping a quill in the blood and writing entries in his diary of his own blood. Onassis finally banned the man from his presence, our sources say.

Jackie, for her part, was bored by the oilmen Ari brought to Skorpios. One summer, a top executive of British Petroleum and his wife came to the island. Jackie virtually ignored them and entertained herself by running movies almost every night, according to sources who were there.

Another time, the Onassises were invited to dinner by a Mobil oil executive. Jackie refused to go and invented the excuse that her son John was sick.

As we reported in earlier columns, Onassis also began to resent his wife's extravagance. One of his associates, in an attempt to describe Jackie's spending habits, told us: "You can believe anything, anything."

Ari kept cutting her budget until she complained bitterly to friends. She told them, for example, that she couldn't sue the photographer who took nude photographs of her with a long-distance lens because "Ari is so cheap."

One intimate summed up the Jackie-Ari relationship, after six and a half years of marriage, as "total incompatibility."

"Good News! You've reached the bottom!"

On the Right

The Various Theories of Assassination

By William F. Buckley

These days, on the college circuit, you are asked with great regularity, "Do you believe that the Warren Commission has been discredited?" We have all heard this before. The skepticism appears to come in and reach a very full tide about every three years. The tide was thoroughly out last year, when Mr. David Belin, who was a very young lawyer with the Warren Commission, published a book abolishing every significant doubt that had been raised about Lee Harvey Oswald's sole responsibility for the death of John Kennedy. What provides the doubt this time was the showing of the Zapruder film on television. I have not seen it, but everyone who has done so will tell you with great conviction that the impact of the lethal bullet on the head of the President came unequivocably from ahead of him: so that we are back to the Grassy Knoll, the world's most wanted killer.

To the questioners who accost me, I reply: "The Warren Commission was composed of a panel of eight men. When one of them steps forward to say that in the light of new evidence he is convinced that the Commission should be reconstituted, my ears will flare up: and I shall spend whatever time a conscientious citizen should spend looking into the question. Why not now? Because there is something wholesome in the notion of res adjudicata: the answered question. To begin to doubt everything is, often, less a quest for truth, than an act of vanity, or a venture in iconoclasm.

Most recently we heard the Reverend Jesse Jackson say that he was no longer convinced that Dr. Martin Luther King was shot down by James Earl Ray. By whom, then? Brace yourself: by the CIA and the FBI. If this were true, it would undoubtedly be unique in history as an act in which the CIA and the FBI actually managed to coordinate.

In fact—of course—there is no more evidence that the CIA shot down Martin Luther King than that Jesse Jackson did. Jackson, as a matter of fact, was standing next to Dr. King when the fatal bullet was fired. The CIA's budget has been trimmed in the years since detente began, but one cannot suppose that if the CIA was engaged in shooting down black civil rights leaders, they'd have begrudged themselves some extra bullets to polish off Dr. Jackson while they were at it.

Jesse Jackson's charge, coming from a man of considerable intellect and restraint, is foolish, and prejudicial to serious revisionist inquiry— by persuading the public at large that the protesters are ideologists on the historical make.

Which brings us to the assassination of Senator Robert Kennedy. Mr. Allard Lowenstein, the lawyer, politician, author, and reformer, who is given to turning the pages of progress from right to left, has emerged as the leader of the movement to re-examine the question whether Sirhan Sirhan actually killed Robert Kennedy.

He was recently asked: "How much difference, actually, does it make? What if it happens that some other person fired the lethal shot? Since no one doubts that Sirhan Sirhan was there, firing at Kennedy and attempting his assassination, is there more at stake in reopening the inquiry than merely identifying the other assassin?"

Yes, says Mr. Lowenstein. "Because that other assassin, quite apart from our desire to find him and punish him (even if doing so would not substantially diminish Sirhan's sentence) could reveal a network of backers who planned Robert Kennedy's assassination. If such a body of men exists, capable of frustrating American democracy and getting away with it, it is the sovereign responsibility of the Republic to find it out."

Such is fantasy. But it happens that Mr. Lowenstein, reviewing the work of additional skeptics, has detected anomalies in the State's case. These are not, in my offhand opinion, the stuff on the basis of which one reverses one's judgement. But what is singular about them is that the mere firing of one bullet from Sirhan's gun could conceivably put them to rest. The Los Angeles prosecutor declines to fire the gun, on the grounds that the ballistics experts could then still be disagreed about the fatal bullet's provenance, leaving the personal guilt of Sirhan as though it was attached to perpetual historical ambiguity.

Lowenstein replies that, on the contrary, at least by firing the gun the police might rescue their case from where it now sits—precisely in perpetual doubt. My own feeling is that Mr. Lowenstein's advocacy of the double gun theory alone makes it serious and worth examining. He is a responsible man, distinctly of another breed from the Mark Lanes. I hope he will prevail in Los Angeles.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

First Witch Trial in 300 Years

LOS ANGELES—After Zsuzanna (or Z, for short) had answered three or four phone calls in the back of her shop where she sells herbs, candles and occult supplies, she announced that, "High priestesses are flying in left and right for my trial."

For all of Z Budapest's unconventional assertiveness, her arrest for fortunetelling, or divination as she prefers to call it, by the Los Angeles police has shaken her up. As the high priestess and top witch of the Susan B. Anthony Coven No. 1, Z considers foretelling the future by reading tarot cards part of her religion, which, however, doesn't seem especially well suited to battling the authorities.

"I'd never been arrested for anything before. I thought I was a religious leader," says Z, who was born in Hungary but escaped at age 16 when the Russians destroyed the Freedom Fighters' revolution. "I could make a helluva analogy between Communist Hungary and capitalist America . . . those cops coming in here, taking out handcuffs—the symbol of bondage—freaked me out. I promised them four months of nightmares. They were searching for guns. I said, 'I don't need guns. I have candles.' No, I didn't really say that, so don't put it down.

The spirit of Z's religion isn't combative, but rather more given over to dancing, ritual, lovemaking and feasting. "Life-affirming," she calls it. "We don't think there is any merit in celibacy or self-deprivation. We celebrate a lot; we have eight major holidays a year—every new moon and every full moon is one; not once do we worship the death principle," Z explained. In fact, one of the officers is called The Nymph, "and her only function is to see that the coven has fun, to make sure there is plenty of good wine and plenty of the sacred salami."

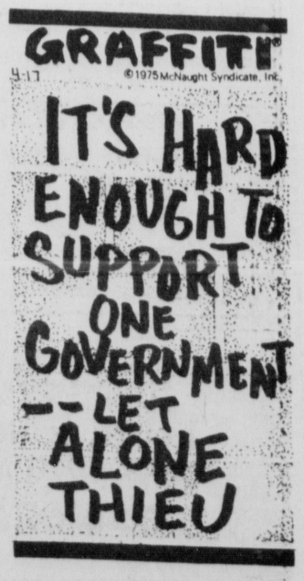

In the event that the Los Angeles police can't be induced to partake of the sacred salami, the coven, which numbers 300 women, does have some of the traditional curses with which to defend itself. Z says they can hex rapists, and that once a group of 13 witches destroyed the ground where the men had built "a jock temple," or stadium, when the women wanted a child-care center. The problem, as Z points out, is that curses take two or three years to realize themselves while masculine guns speak ever so much more quickly.

One of the reasons that Z Budapest began the coven and the Feminist Wicca, as she calls her shop, is like that which impels other women to demand ordination in the Episcopal church; the feeling of exclusion. But Z goes further. She has come to look on Christianity—she was a Catholic much of her life—as a "patriarchal," anti-feminist faith. In that regard one of the more interesting books she has in her store is an 1895 "Women's Bible" put out by a group of women led by the great 19th-century feminist, Elizabeth Cady Stanton. The "Women's Bible" tries to demonstrate that orthodox scripture is a giant male usurpation.

Z's witchcraft or paganism is something that she both makes up a as she goes along and has inherited from ancient times. The Avatar Goddess of Witches Aradia, Z says, is a very, very old lady, and it is Aradia's "Book of Shadows" that the coven follows when it meets in its secret places on mountaintops to invoke her and the other distaff spirits.

While much of this is delightfully spooky, it has nothing to do with the more wicked forms of diabolism which are rumored to be practiced in these parts. "Satanism," Z remarks, "is just the flip side of Christianity, and we don't have anything to do with that. My religion isn't supernatural. I believe my religion is very earthy in fact. I believe in what works."

Most covens are coed. Over the centuries, large numbers of men as well as women have been killed for practicing witchcraft. Still, there is a decidedly feminine aspect to the occupation, perhaps because it is a low-overhead religion you can practice at home in the kitchen. Z erects her altars in the backyard between the clotheslines. But the boys busted her anyway, thus making Z Budapest the first witch to be tried in this country in 300 years.

NAACP Rebuttal

Editor: The Freeman

In reply to your editorial of April 14, 1975, it is incumbent upon me to try and put the legal battle we have carried on since 1972, in proper prospective as concisely as humanly possible. A hearing was held in the State Department of Education on our complaint September 5, 1973, and on February 13, 1974, a decision was made sustaining our position and appellant was ordered within 20 days to resign, either as a member of the said Board of Education or as a police officer with the Police Department of the City of Kingston. At this hearing the appellant was advised that he may be drawing his police salary illegally. We didn't give this information out to the media because we were not interested in jeopardizing the member's economic position, however, the board's contempt for us has resulted in our exercising every option available to us, therefore, we feel the action we are now taking has been forced upon us by both the board and the member in question.

At the outset of this matter every attempt was made to negotiate and dispose of these cases. On November 21, 1972, I gave a luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel with Hon. Hubert A. Richter, Chief Julius Glassman, Rev. John H. Gilmore, Rev. James Childs, Mrs. Sharon Kennedy and myself. We discussed these cases and their ramifications if allowed to proceed. We told Hon. Hubert A. Richter and Chief Julius Glassman that we did not want the court and police involved in this controversy, that this matter should be handled at the school and Board of Education level. We also stated to Chief Julius Glassman that he had been tossed a dirty ball by the school administration, however, we made it clear that we had no fault to find of him and the police for having to come into the matter. The members of the committee whose names appear above felt at the conclusion of this luncheon that the judge and chief would make the right decision, however, the judge land chief made no commitment to us. At this point the Ulster County Branch, NAACP had not engaged itself legally, nor had counsel been engaged.

Following this luncheon, at the next court appearance of the students before Judge Richter, he was about to make a decision, when a representative from the District Attorney's office interrupted the judge and said that the District Attorney wanted to take a look at the charges of Elizabeth Waters and Thelma Price. At this point the District Attorney tied the judge's hand all cases were continued. This action by the D.A. appeared to me to be a personal vendetta against Elizabeth Waters and Thelma Price. We then secured legal counsel for the black students. We secured the services of Stanley Faulkner, Esq., of New York. Befor Mr. Faulkner did anything he made a trip to Kingston to talk to the D.A. with no success.

As to the conflict of interest we raised about Detective Joseph Feraca's position on the school board—was not a personal matter, it was and still is a matter of principle, we can't see how he can be on both sides of the fence at the same time.

There is no doubt the editorial, particularly, the last paragraph was intended to prejudice the minds of a segment of the population and further the ambition of one's aim with little or no regard to ethics or ultimate consequences. It is inconceiveable that after the Nixon administration tragedy we have not learned anything. It is my considered judgment that what is happening in Kingston School District will haunt the taxpayers and school administrators in future years.

Terror in Saigon

Editor, The Freeman:

The Ford administration has sought to brainwash the U.S. public by its slanderous propaganda that the Thieu dictatorship has to be saved to prevent a bloodbath initiated by the national liberation army. Events have proven the opposite is the case. Dispatches from Saigon quote U.S. advisors there as expressing fear, of the very officers and men they had once assisted and advised in the Thieu dictatorship," according to the New York Times. One of these advisors is quoted as saying: "Never mind the Viet Cong. They are at least disciplined. Like cornered rats, the henchmen of the traitorous Thieu clique are clawing at one another."

Terror from Da Nang comes not from the liberation armed forces-Viet Cong "communists," but from the looting, raping, and shooting by Thieu's mercenaries. Those who are fleeing are not the masses of the people, but the criminals and the traitors; I quote part of Associated Press, by Arnold Zeitlin, datelined Da Nang, A.P. reported by the Poughkeepsie Journal March 28. "Most of those leaving Da Nang in the first 24 hours of the airlift were the well-to-do. They carried with them television sets, stereophonic record players, and in some cases, satchels filled with money. Many women were dressed in their best."

At the same time, in Da Nang and all over Vietnam, Saigon troops are increasingly deserting in the faces of the national liberation forces, bringing with them over $1 billion in equipment. This explains how in three weeks time such large areas have been liberated from Saigon's oppressive rule.

Even at this late date, Ford is insisting to get another billion dollars for Saigon's bankrupt regime. We can not blame our administration for asking for such a sum, after all we must replace the $1 billion the dictator Thieu left behind in his retreat to supply the communist army.

Now we see the greatest show on earth. The commander-in-chief of the baby lifters, President Ford, poses in San Francisco holding in his hypocritical arms an innocent victim of a "humanitarian" airlift, being used as a screen for planes bearing arms to the Saigon dictatorship.

First we helped kill the parents, and now we steal their orphan babies, creating more resentme resentment and more hate against us. According to our statistics, there are over 150 thousand orphans in our own country, but most of them are Blacks, Puerto Rican, and poor, therefore unwanted by our society.

Remember that under the Nixon war time, we urged our army to kill as many as possible of those "gooks" "communists," but now we airlift the little orphan "gooks."

Sincerely,
ANGELO DeLEWIS

Mideast Crisis

Editor, The Freeman:

Return to the pre-June 1967 borders, a just solution to the problem of the Palestinian refugees and the rights of the Palestinians. These are the issues whose solutions, when found, will bring peace to the Middle East. This is the argument I hear again and again. But, somehow, no matter how many times I hear it, something still isn't right.

Will a return to the vulnerable pre-June 1967 borders bring peace to the Middle East? Was there peace in May 1967 when Israel was within those boundaries? No, the conflict goes back much further than 1967. This problem is a result of the Arab-Israeli Conflict, not its cause.

How about a just solution to the refugee problem? Maybe this will bring peace. But this also is a result of the conflict, which far precedes the refugees, and not the root of it. Certainly it would help but it is not the answer.

Then surely the creation of a Palestinian state is the answer. But there was a Palestinian state created by the same United Nations Partition Plan of 1947 that created the Jewish state, that was not the answer then and it is not the answer now.

No, it is not a question of boundaries, nor of refugees, nor of the rights of the Palestinians, but of the VERY EXISTENCE OF ISREAL. The root of the Arab-Israeli conflict is the refusal of the Arab World to accept the legitimacy of a Jewish state, no matter how large, in the Middle East. This is why there were wars in 1948, in 1956, in 1967 and again in 1973. This is why we have a border problem and a refugee problem and the demand for a Palestinian State that was created 27 years ago but never materialized. These are the results of wars due NOT to Isreali intrasigence but to ARAB intransigence.

I would like to quote the late King Faisal of Saudi Arabia from a speech delivered in Mecca before an audience of Moslem pilgrims and diplomats on Dec. 30, 1967. (As reported by the Saudi Arabian Press) "It is unfortunate that some people are trying to promote the so-called historical rights of the Jews in Jerusalem, the Jews have no holy place in Jerusalem. The so-called Temple of Solomon was carried away by the Romans when they conquered Palestine. Thus the Jews have no onnection with the Holy City, they have no rights of presence in the city, or rule there and their feet should not tread within it." "The Jews deviated from the law of Moses and tried to murder Jesus Christ. Because they did not want the law of God to be observed. They are the enemies of Islam and it is specifically stressed in the Koran that the Jews are the worst sworn enemies of the Moslems. We shall mobilize all our forces and resources to redeem our Holy places and liberate Jerusalem from the zionists and communists which are both the most dangerous enemies of Allah and the Faith of Islam." "If there is no Jewish connection with Jerusalem what possible connection can there be with the rest of the country? But even if they had some kind of claim, it is forfeit by virtue of their enmity to Islam and their attempted deicide."

Until the Arab World can face up to the fact that Israel does exist and will continue to exist as a legitimate state, by issuing a simple declaration of non belligerency, there can be and will be no solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict. However, should the legitimacy of Israel be accepted, there is no reason why any and all of the problems in the Middle East could not be resolved to the satisfaction of all.

One last word is necessary to understand Israel's position in the present situation and its reluctance to give up conquered territory without such a declaration of non belligerency, Israelis remember all too well what happened after the Sinai campaign of 1956. They withdrew from the Suez Canal and all territory conquered at that time. They trusted the paper guarantees that were given. A U.N. force was stationed in Sinai and at Sharm Al Sheikh. One word from Nasser and the U.N. personnel were removed and the war of 1967 started.

Drill Bid Opening

ALBANY — The State Department of Transportation will open bids on April 24 on the drilling of a test well to determine water supply for a proposed maintenance facility off Route 209 in Wawarsing.

The state plans to build a garage to house about half a dozen vehicles on an eight-acre parcel, half a mile west of Route 44. However, it must be determined first whether there is sufficient water to service the facility. The state owns about three acres of the land and has an option to purchase the rest of it.

Bids will be opened in Albany on the test well contract.

Are County Senior Citizens Short-Changed Without OFA?

(Editor's note: This is the second of a two-part series on the suggested establishment of an Office for the Aging Ulster County.)

By Dorothy A. Narel

Antoinette Tennant, president of the Ulster County Senior Citizens Alliance Inc., claims that Ulster County has had a unique organization in operation for the past seven years and doesn't need any new organizations.

This was in answer to the recommended establishment of an OFA office in Ulster County made by the Interfaith Social Action Committee which represents five churches in the immediate areas of Woodstock-West Hurley and interested residents.

"We have 28 active clubs which have been encouraged to act on their own, make their own decisions and develop activities and contacts with school boards, town boards, Ulster County Board of Health, Welfare and Social Security Departments, to take care of specific problems as they arise in the 19 towns and the City of Kingston." said Mrs. Tennant.

Mrs. Tennant does not feel seniors are helpless. "They are in the peak of their health in many cases, many of whom are retired professional people and real leaders," she says. "Only five percent of the seniors in the United States are in nursing homes and 95 percent of the seniors are very capable of taking care of their own problems," Mrs. Tennant added.

The Alliance president feels, however, that existing laws which govern housing, welfare and many HEW problems, should be enforced and "organizations should function better than they do. We really don't need new programs," she concludes.

Mrs. Tennant also said that every town in Ulster County has a senior citizen center except for the Towns of Denning and Hardenburgh. "These are so far removed, the people there go to Delaware and Sullivan Counties for their activities," she stated, In her statement she reemphasized that no salaries are paid in the Alliance but that each affiliated club pays $10 per year to cover costs of telephone calls, stamps, etc. The Alliance newsletter and minutes are printed by the Ulster County Legislative office.

On the subject of the National Nutrition Program Lunch Program, Mrs. Tennant reaffirmed the Ulster County Legislature has appropriated $7,500 in support for 1975. She also indicated that since April of 1974 school boards may, upon request, extend lunch privileges to senior citizens residing within their own respective school district. Meals cost in the neighborhood of 80 cents. Mrs. Tennant said this program is now in progress in the Onteora Central School District.

The LIFE Department learned that senior citizens have received this approval from Dr. Frank Marlowe, superintendent of OCS and its board member. The luncheon program was also approved by the Highland Central School District in March.

In Kingston, Louis Salzmann, superintendent of schools, said the lunch program is not in progress and ". . . no requests for this type of service have been received." Mrs. Louise Kennedy, supervisor of school lunches for the Kingston Schools Consolidated, confirmed the statement.

Alexander Yosman, who recently appeared before the Ulster County Legislature's Committee on the Aging, presented his recommendations for an OFA office. Representing the Senior Citizens Advisory Council of Kingston, Yosman said:

"The senior citizens of our county are being short-changed by not having an Office for the Aged. While the federal government has appropriated approximately 232 million dollars, the state approximately 4 million, all we are receiving in Ulster County is approximately $11,000 per year from the state for the recreation program, administered by the Senior Citizens Alliance; approximately $99,000 per year from the federal government for the nutritional proram administered by Community Action, Inc." Indicating there are many more dollars available to the county, Yosman says:

"We are not receiving our proper share."

Admitting he has reversed his position on the subject since it was first proposed in 1973, Yosman feels the clubs under the Alliance represent only 15 percent of the senior citizens. In a letter circulated to the clubs, he "wondered who is representing and looking out for the other 17,000 who do not belong to clubs for many reasons."

In 1974, former Gov. Malcol Wilson announced that $7,354,116.50 was awarded for the creation of 34 Area Agencies on Aging across the State. Ulster County was, and is not, among them.

Objectives of the program as stated were: to make available comprehensive programs which include a full range of health, education and social services to older citizens who need them;

—to give full and special consideration to older citizens with special needs in planning such programs, and, pending the availability of such programs for all older citizens, give priority to the elderly with the greatest economic and social need;

—to provide comprehensive programs which will assure the coordinated delivery of a full range of essential services to older citizens, and, where applicable, also furnish meaningful employment opportunities for many individuals, including older persons, young persons, and volunteers from the community;

—to insure that the planning and operation of such programs will be undertaking as a partnership of older citizens, community agencies, and State and local governments, with appropriate assistance from the federal government.

In Wilson's statement, it was made clear that under the program, county governments in New York State, and the City of New York, must create independent Offices or Departments for the Aging in the local governmental structure whose sole responsibility is the well being of older persons. These offices and departments, in turn, must then submit official Area Plans, enumerating local needs and solutions to existing problems of the aging, to the State Office for the Aging for approval.

In addition to the overall planning, administration and coordination by the Area Agencies, the Area Plans also provide for the devolopment of comprehensive and coordinated systems for the delivery of social services which may be administered directly by the Area Agency, or contracted out to local public and private, nonprofit agencies, organizations and institutions.

Among the variety of such social services are: health, continuing education, welfare, informational recreational, homemaker/home health aide, counseling, or referral services; transportation services where necessary to facilitate access to social services; services designed to encourage and assist older persons to use the facilities and services available to them; services designed to assist older persons to obtain adequate housing; and services designed to assist older persons in avoiding institutionalization, including pre-institutionalization evaluation and screening, and home health services.

In MODERN MATURITY, magazine published by the American Association for Retired Persons, Cyril F. Brickfield, AARP Legislative Counsel, wrote:

"Older persons are not benefiting as they should from revenue sharing. Where can revenue sharing funds be directed? They can be used for operating expenses by neighborhood centers, for rent supplements, public housing for the elderly, the purchase and operation of nursing homes, for adult education programs, jobs, salaries of social workers and case workers, or the cost of administering and operating a program of services for older persons.

As one spokesman for the Interfaith Action Committee put it: "We do not want anyone to think this is a conflict of personalities. We can all work together—we all want what is best for our senior citizens."

Community Concert Group Opens Membership Campaign

Preparing for the upcoming membership campaign are (l-r) Mrs. John Hill, captain; Mrs. Joyce Smith, Mrs. Frank Falatyn, workers; rear, Mrs. John McCullough, membership secretary. (Freeman photo).

The Captain's Tea of the Community Concert Association was held Sunday, Apr. 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough, 72 Highland Avenue, Kingston. The occasion earmarked the beginning of the forthcoming campaign for memberships for the 1975-76 series.

John McCullough, president of the association, gave a detailed report about the association, its history and contribution to the cultural life of the Hudson Valley.

Mrs. John McCullough, membership secretary, presented information to the captains and new workers who were in attendance, spoke briefly about the procedures for obtaining memberships, and introduced new workers from areas throughout Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock, Rhinebeck, Tannersville, New Paltz, Red Hook, Stone Ridge, Tillson, Port Ewen, Hurley and Kerhonkson.

"The mail campaign, just recently concluded, was very successful, well above last year's returns," stated Mrs. McCullough. "We have been very pleased with the results to date."

Fifteen Captains of the association will be coordinating the efforts of over 80 workers during the membership drive which is scheduled May 5-10. Among the new workers present at the organizational meeting were Mrs. George Alexander, Mrs. Harry Bantham, Mrs. Tom Buckley, Dale Deschler, Mrs. Josef Eisenlauer, Mrs. Donald Jameson, Mrs. Richard Lutz, Mr. Richard Olsen, Mrs. June Pauker, Mrs. Martin Peterson, Mrs. Joyce Smith, Mrs. Charles Talleur, and Mrs. William Tomasesky.

Captains include the following persons: Mrs. Madelin Atwater, Hunter-Tannersville-Prattsville; Kenneth Baumgartner, New Paltz; Mrs. John Crews, Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, Mary Keresman, Mrs. William Rylance, Mrs. Rita Senor and Mrs. George Wert, Kingston; Mrs. Ernest Foss, Rhinebeck; Mrs. C.B. Glowienka, Red Hook; Mrs. Roy. Irving, Woodstock; Mrs. Herman Knaust, Saugerties; Robert Palmatier, Stone Ridge, High Falls, Tillson and Kerhonkson; Mrs. Robert Scherer, Port Ewen; and Mrs. Charles Selzo, Hurley.

The series for the forthcoming season will be a stellar one, for the association will be presenting the award winning musical "1776," September 16, The Manhattan Operatic Trio, January 5, and the National Arts Center Orchestra of Canada, March 24.

Those interested in obtaining memberships are urged to contact either Mrs. George Wert, campaign chairman, or Mrs. John McCullough, membership secretary. Memberships must be obtained for the entire series during the Campaign Week only. No single admissions are ever sold for indidividual concerts. Adult memberships are $12 and students $5 for the entire series.

DEAR ABBY: My younger brother and his wife are both 23. I guess you could call them "hippies." They live in a large house in the country with a lot of other hippies.

My brother's wife is expecting her first baby in a few months, and she plans to have it at home with the others in the home "helping." Another woman who lives in the home is having a baby next month, and they expect to learn everything they need to know then.

Although both these kids are bright and not ruined by drugs, they won't listen to any "old wives' tales" or to their lab-technician brother-in-law about the dangers of this. My brother's wife is Rh negative.

They say they live only 10 minutes from a hospital, and that's enough.

Can you give me some good arguments for convincing them not to go through with their plan? What does your medical advisers say?

J.

DEAR J.: I agree that this young couple are foolish not to have a prenatal examination to be sure that the mother can anticipate a reasonably normal birth process.

Failure to do this could endanger the lives of both the mother and the new infant during birth. The couple are seriously understimating the possible problems and complications that could arise if they think that watching one delivery will teach them "everything they need to know."

There is nothing wrong with wanting to have the delivery at home, but they would be well-advised to at least have an experienced midwife present to assist them.

DEAR ABBY: Can a girl get pregnant from kissing with her mouth open?

WORRIED IN CHICAGO

DEAR WORRIED: No But it's a good beginning.

DEAR ABBY : You once remarked that a woman of 65 was not exactly an ancient relic yet—or words to that effect.

Well, that is my age, and that is also my feeling.

I am presently keeping company with a very fine gentleman. He is refined, cultured, lonely—and 80-years-old.

I could be interested in him if I were sure we could have a "real" marriage. My problem is how to find out.

What do you think, Dear Abby? I have heard men in their 70's and 80's boast that they are as "young" as they were 30 years ago, but of course I never knew whether they were telling the truth. Is it possible?

I wouldn't want to marry a man who could do nothing but talk. Don't use my name please. Everybody here knows me.

NO GAMBLER IN NEVADA

DEAR NO: It is possible for a man to be sexually active as long as he lives—no matter how old he is. But the only way you can find out if you can have a "real" marriage with this cultured gentleman is to ask him. And pray that he's not just another "talker."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE GRADUATE": Do not send out an "announcement" each time your earn a degree. Your family and close friends will know, and the others might get the

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my wife of four months is 15. I married her because she said she was pregnant. She wasn't. Now she admits that she just said she was pregnant so I would marry her.

Because of our marriage, I had to quit school and get a job in a factory. I even had to borrow money from my parents to make a down payment on a mobile home. This really hurt me because my parents are hard-working people who made a sacrifice to let me have the money.

I really was in love with the girl before we were married, but every time I think of the dirty trick she pulled on me,, I'm turned off.

I am thinking about divorce, and want your opinion.

STUCK IN S.D.

DEAR STUCK: Granted, it was a dirty trick, but don't rush into a divorce unless you are positive that that is what you want.

RECORD CROWDS AT DISNEY WORLD (UPI)

'Strawberry Margarita'

Leaving the World Behind

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Disney World czar Dick Nunis, with characteristic fussing over detail, was helping the bartender at Cap'n Jack's Oyster Bar perfect a drink he called a "strawberry Margarita."

Nunis and his tablemates — Bob Allen, gdisney's vice president in charge of resorts, and Charlie Ridgway —were savoring a report released this week that showed gate-bustin' crowds at both Disney World and Disneyland in California. It brought the total for the first three years of the year to 3.15 million, 49.5 percent better than last year.

"We really believe people are just tired of it all, and this type of family entertainment offers them an escape," said Nunis. "They can leave the trials and tribulations of the outside world behind."

Gary Eves was one of those visitors. He sat on a park bench of Main Street in the Magic Kingdom, waiting for his wife and children to buy the last of the souvenirs to take back home to Sharon, Pa.

The 35-year-old construction worker said he and his wife, a nurse, had been saving their money and planning the trip for more than a year.

"So far the economy hasn't hurt us much," he said. "I've been working seven days a week sometimes."

The family, including children at ages 9, 11, and 2, planned to spend three days at Disney World, staying at the Contemporary Hotel at $56 a night.

"It's expensive, but it's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the kids," Eves said.

Many of the guests wandering around Fantasyland this week confirmed the Disney view that not everyone is hurting financially.

Dan Kilgore, a dentist from Kalamazoo, Mich., bringing his wife and two children for the park for a second time, just smiled and said: "No, the economy has not had much effect on me, generally."

Others said it was a vacation that had been planned for a long time and they didn't want to disappoint their families.

"This was the year we were going to come down, so we did," said Jim Featherstone, a finance company employee from Toronto, Canada.

Landon Haynes, Florida's director of tourism research, said the state's tourist industry is running about 15 percent ahead of the 1973 boom year and he has upgraded his projection to a total of about 26 million visitors for 1975.

Tom Brownlee, Executive Director of the Orlando Area Chamber of Commerce, said the area's 28,448 motel rooms, which showed an occupancy rate of only 46 percent for the first three months of 1974, averaged 61 percent the first three quarters of this year.

From Skid Row to the Law

MIAMI (UPI) — Sam Erwin figures he has "slept in every skid row in the United States (and) hoboed on every railroad system there was" but for now he is content to sit and contemplate the experiences of others.

For the past decade he has gone to the Dade County Courthouse on an almost daily basis to observe what he calls the "constant drama."

But Erwin has not always been a mere observer. His own life has been full of dramatic experiences. He once worked with legendary sportswriter Grantland Rice and spent time on a chain gang.

Erwin's memories of Rice date back to the days when he worked in the mailing room of the Nashville Tennessean in 1911.

"Grantland Rice was the sports editor and I was one of his many admirers," he recalls. "Everybody followed him —he used to give away tickets to sporting events...and he didn't drink.

"But I did," Erwin adds, "and it had a way of sneaking up on me before I knew it."

He was jailed several times for drunkenness, he says, and was sentenced to hard labor in connection with an automobile accident in which a pedestrian was struck.

"I served 30 days on the toughest chain gaing in the United States —the No. 5 gang out of Davis County, Tenn., — making little rocks out of big ones," Erwin said.

"I slept in every skid row in the United States —hoboed on every railroad system there was —and then one day, I decided to quit drinking.

"Nature abhors a vacuum so instead of drinking, I decided to make a study of the word of God."

Later, he says he turned to history and the law "and now I read five, six hours a night."

Plaudits For Fair

NEW PALTZ

Prominent federal, state, county and local officials involved in environmental concerns have responded enthusiastically to invitations sent to them for the Ulster County Management Council Environmental Fair to be held Sunday, April 20 from noon to 5 p.m. in Elting Gym, State University at New Paltz.

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.) called the fair "an imaginative grass roots approach that is necessary if this nation is to solve the complex problems of energy, economy and environment." He applauded the council for helping form a pattern for others who are equally interested in seeing this country reach, and achieve, self-sufficiency with no adverse effect to the environment.

Warm praise and endorsement has also been received by Ulster County Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st. Dist.) who has hailed the council for promoting environmental education. "The theme of the fair demonstrates the interdependence of our energy needs, the need to stimulate the economy and the importance of promoting environmental conservatoion", he said. "These three critical elements of modern society are tied closely together. One cannot be ignored without adversely effecting the other. I commend the council for recognizing this relationship and promoting its public discussion," Hinchey said.

Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) declared the week of April 20 as National Environmental Awareness Week in Ulster County, urging all residents to attend the fair. "During these times when great emphasis is being placed on the environment, it is encouraging that through the council, Ulster County is participating and displaying impact. The council should receive full recognition for its efforts in preparing the Fair for public presentation," he said.

Mayor John G. Vett of the Village of New Paltz also urged attendance at the fair and has called upon the people of New Paltz ". . . to do all that is possible to improve the environment of the Village. It is a fitting time for each one of us to rededicate ourselves to a personal effort to understand these problems and do something about it."

Robert Young, deputy commissioner of the State Department of Environmental Conservation and Regional Director Warren H. McKeon are planning to attend. Miss Debralea Buchan, Miss Ulster County, and a number of town supervisors, mayors and county legislators will also be present.

Paltz Board Hears Plan

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Town Board at a public hearing Tuesday night heard a proposal for furnishing town water to a 40-acre residential development north of the village of New Paltz.

Otis Palmenberg, an engineer for New Paltz Growers Inc. (NPG) described a supply system that would tap the water line to the nearby Duzine School. Water would be stored in a 500,000 gallon tank for the residential development.

Christus Larios, town consulting engineer, said he would give engineering approval for the project only to furnish water for the 40 acres under consideration, with no possibility of enlarging the area later.

The town board is expected to consider the matter at its regular meeting April 23, according to Town Clerk Jane E. West.

In a special meeting prior to the public hearing, the board accepted the resignation of Councilwoman Anita Taylor, who said she was resigning to spend more time with her family. No replacement was named.

Committee Chairman Slated on TV Show

KINGSTON

Mrs. Johanna Jankowski, state chairman of the New York State Right to Life Committee, will appear on a 90-minute television program on abortion hosted by David Frost, April 25 on Channel 7.

The Ulster County mother of four was appointed chairman of the Ulster County Chapter of Right to Life in 1971 and was elected to the state post last year.

She and other Right to Life members have lobbied successfully for legislation which provides aid to live aborted children and provides financial aid to adoptive parents of handicapped children.

Mrs. Jankowski has attended hundreds of conventions and workshops on abortion and euthanasia around the country and has lobbied in Albany and Washington, D.C.

Mail Concerning MIA's

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th) (center) accepts two bags of mail containing letters from persons concerned with the plight of servicemen still missing in action in Southeast Asia. The letters were presented to Fish at his Washington office by Glenn Laxton (L) and Raphael Marx, both of Poughkeepsie, who prompted the letter writing campaign. Later, the three met with former prisoners and their wives and families to discuss the situation. (Freeman photo)

How Competitive Is New WFL?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Once it was established that the World Football League was back in business for another crack at the money-losing record, the next matter of concern was just how good it would be competitively.

And for that expertise, the man who put the WFL back in one piece again, Chris Hemmeter, turned to some of the people who are being paid handsomely to prevent another costly collapse.

Larry Csonka and Calvin Hill, as the spokesmen for the players, didn't disappoint.

"It took the old American Football League eight to nine years to present a team playing on equal terms with an NFL team," Csonka said, "I think it will take us a little less than half the time.

"The reason for this is the great quantity of new talent coming out of the colleges, and it's not just that the quality of the players is better, there are more of them."

"I think this league will hold out," Csonka added. "I just hope my knees do."

Csonka, along with former Miami Dolphin teammates Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick, will play for Memphis of the restructured WFL. Hill, who said he felt like a pioneer, is moving from the Dallas Cowboys to Hawaii.

All four attended the WFL's news conference Wednesday along with another NFL jumper, John Gilliam of Minnesota. His WFL affiliation is not yet decided.

"There are a lot of great players in the World Football League," said Hill, a running back, "and I don't want to pretend that my putting on a uniform will assure me the same status I've had. There are some good players to contend with and they'll be hitting."

"It's a very competitive league because they are competitive athletes. The quality of play is better than a lot of us think it is."

Hemmeter, a 35-year-old Hawaiian, announced Wednesday that despite losses estimated at $20 million, the WFL would return for another season dedicated to "a prudent and responsible fiscal plan." In addition, although now a different corporate entity than the league that operated last year, the new WFL intends to make good on more than $7.5 million in debts.

Only the Memphis and Philadelphia franchises remain intact from the league's first season of operation, with the other returning cities under new ownership groups. In addition to Memphis and Philadelphia, the other eight franchises for 1975 are Birmingham, Chicago, Hawaii, San Antonio, Shreveport, Southern California, Jacksonville and Charlotte.

Two more cities, one identified as Portland, Ore., may be added before the 20-game schedule gets under way in late July.

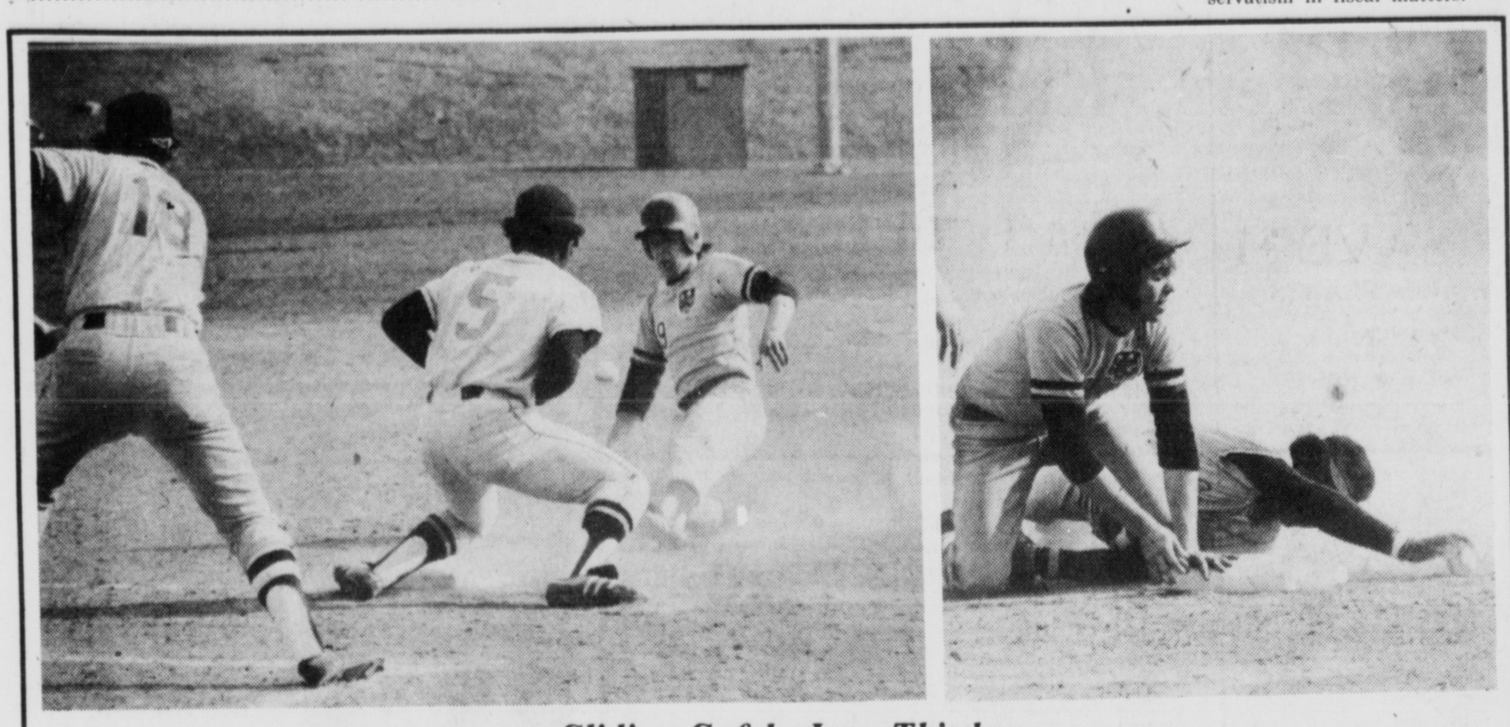

To add some further glamor to the league, Hemmeter admitted that a package worth $4 million, plus a half interest in an expansion franchise, had bben made to gimpy-kneed quarterback Joe Namath of the NFL's New Yor Jets. If Namath signs, he will play with Chicago.

It wasn't explained, though, how such an offer fits in with the new league's avowed policy of conservatism in fiscal matters.

Bulls Keep Proving Accuracy of Nickname

By UPI

The Chicago Bulls proved once more that they are the most aptly nicknamed team in the National Basketball Association.

Center Tom Boerwinkle, who resembles a steer as much as a basketball player, and guard Norm Van Lier, who plays defense like a bronco busting cowboy, rode roughshod over Kansas City-Omaha stars Sam Lacey and Nate Archibald Wednesday night as the Bulls took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarterfinal series with a 93-90 win.

"Keep Nate Archibald from getting assists," Van Lier said, "and you can beat the Kansas City Kings. Archibald won't beat us by himself."

Archibald, one of the NBA leaders in assists, got 18 points but no assists.

"He's a great ball player,' said Van Lier, but to me, Sam Lacey is a key too. He can rebound and score from the top of the key and bloek shots. He's the hub."

Lacey did rebound, hauling down an impressive 18, but Boerwinkle grabbed 24 to help the Bulls win the war on the front lines with a 58-44 edge.

"Boerwinkle was blocking out very well and got some key tipins," Kings Coach Phil Johnson said.

Bulls Coach Dick Motta, despite the victory and the series edge, warned, "These teams are very evenly matched and if one has an advantage over the other, it's probably got to be the home court."

The series resumes Friday night in Kansas City and Motta said that was the way it should be, "one game every other day."

Bob Love had a game-high 31 points for Chicago.

In other NBA playoff action, Washington beat Buffalo 111-96, Boston whipped Houston 112-100 and Seattle edged Golden State 100-99.

Bullets 111, Braves 96

Elvin Hayes and Phil Chenier combined for 58 points as Washington pulled away in the second half to whip Buffalo. The Bullets beat the Braves for the first time in four starts at home this year and take a 2-1 lead into game four Friday night in Buffalo.

Celtics 112, Rockets 100

Dave Cowens, John Havlicek and Jo Jo White combined for 72 points to lead Boston over Houston for a 2-0 lead in their quarterfinal series. Cowens led Boston with 26 points while Havlicek and White each had 23. The Rockets' Calvin Murphy topped all scorers with 30 points. Game three is Saturday in Houston.

SuperSonics 100, Warriors 99

Fred Brown's layup with 1:08 left and Spencer Haywood's two free throws 20 seconds later led Seattle over Golden State to even their series at one victory each. Haywood led all scorers with 28 points and Brown added 26. Rick Barry led Golden State with 29 points. The series shifts to Seattle for the third and fourth games.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Despite Billy Knight's 33 points and George McGinnis' 32, Coach Bobby Leonard thinks team defense was the difference as the Pacers' eliminated San Antonio from the ABA playoffs Wednesday night.

The Pacers emerged with a 115-100 victory to wrap up the first-round best-of-seven playoff series, 4-to-2 over the Spurs after six games.

Indiana now advances to the Western Division playoff title round against Denver while St. Louis faces Kentucky in the East.

"Our team defense was the difference," Leonard said after the game. "I told them before the game don't panic, play the percentage shots. We didn't panic when we got behind by seven early in the game, and we came back and took the game away from them.

"Knight was sensational and what can you say about George (McGinnis). He's been super all season."

Spurs Coach Bob Bass said rebounding was a key to the game. "There was a stretch before the half when they outrebounded us and they kept the edge."

Indiana won the rebound battle, 62-50.

Bass said it was San Antonio's weakest game of the series "but I can't complain. We came back well after losing the first three, and I felt we had a good chance to come back all the way."

The Pacers dominated the sixth game of the series virtually all the way, despite George Gervin's 34 points for the Spurs.

Murcer's .345 Looking Mighty Fine

No one (east of San Francisco anyway) is laughing anymore over the supposedly one-sided Bobby Bonds-for-Bobby Murcer deal.

Folks in New York, especially, are not finding Bonds' current .148 batting average very funny. And in San Francisco, where the Giants were vilified for allowing themselves to be "suckered" into such a trade, Bobby Murcer's .345 is looking mighty fine right now.

Murcer reached that lofty average Wednesday by banging out a triple and two singles and driving in three runs in the Giants' 7-1 victory over the San Diego Padres. Meanwhile, back east, poor Bobby Bonds was still struggling, stranding five runners—three on a bases-loaded strikeout—during the Yankees' sixth loss in seven outings.

"I don't mean to downgrade Bobby Bonds for one minute," said Giants Manager Wes Westrum, "but in Murcer, I think we got as good, if not better, player in return. Murcer's the kind of player I wanted to lead my club. He's a smart hitter and he is setting a wonderful example for my younger players.

"Don't forget, I've got a room full of babies out there. They need someone to follow and to this point, Murcer's been the man."

Murcer's two-run triple was the key blow during a five-run rally in the fifth inning and the 28-year old ex-Yankee singled in another run in the eighth. All told, he has six RBIs in eight games.

"That's the way I like to hit," said Murcer after his triple which soared into the gap in left-center. "I don't think home run unless I see a pitch I know I can hit. When there are guys on base, though, I get jacked up."

John D'Acquisto, with 1 1-3 innings of relief help from Randy Moffitt, picked up the victory for the Giants while Dan Spillner, victim of Murcer's triple, was tagged with the loss.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Atlanta downed Houston 5-2, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 5-0 the Chicago Cubs clubbed Philadelphia 9-3, St. Louis shaded the New York Mets 3-2 and Los Angeles ambushed Cincinnati 7-6.

Dodgers 7, Reds 6

Jimmy Wynn's grand slam homer in the seventh inning tied the game and Steve Garvey's bases-loaded single in the ninth won it as the Dodgers made it three straight over the Reds in Los Angeles after losing a season-opening three-game series in Cincinnati. It was the fourth career grand slam for Wynn and his fourth homer this season. Mike Marshall got the win in relief.

Braves 5, Astros 2

Buzz Capra, apparently determined to prove last year's 16-8 mark was no fluke, scattered six hits against Houston in claiming his second victory in as many starts for Atlanta. Dusty Baker smacked a solo homer for the Braves in the second inning and Atlanta scored four more in the fourth —the big hit being "Sugar Bear" Blanks' bases-loaded two-run single.

Expos 5, Pirates 0

Montreal's 35-year-old Woody Fryman, celebrating his return to the National League after a 2½-year stay in the American League, limited the usually potent Pittsburgh attack to just five singles and didn't allow a runner past first until the eighth.

Cubs 9, Phillies 3

Manny Trillo's three-run homer was the big blow in Chicago's five-run first inning outburst against Philadelphia. Bill Madlock and Rick Monday, with three hits apiece, paced a 14-hit Cub attack. Bill Bonham went the distance, yielding six hits, to gain the win.

Cardinals 3, Mets 2

Run-scoring singles by Lou Brock and Ed Brinkman, combined with two Mets' errors, enabled St. Louis to stage a three-run fifth inning rally and deal New York its sixth loss in seven games. Rookie .right-hander John Denny picked up his second victory but needed 1 2-3 innings of relief help from Al Hrabosky and Mike Garman.

Cuellar on Target

The Baltimore Orioles call pitcher Mike Cuellar "Crazy Horse" but he's really crazy like a fox.

The word went out during spring training that the four-time 20-game winner was working on a forkball to supplement his fastball and screwball — a report which spread joy among American League hitters.

They became practically ecstatic when Cuellar was bombed by the Boston Red Sox in his first start of the season. Why, they asked, should an outstanding pitcher unnecessarily adjust his pitching equipment?

Well, the Milwaukee Brewers spent a frustrating two hours and seven minutes looking for Cuellar's new forkball Wednesday night but they saw only two of them. The canny Cuellar threw 75 per cent screwballs enroute to a three-hitter and a 2-0 victory over the Brewers.

"It's unusual to see Cuellar pitch that well this early in the season," said catcher Elrod Hendricks, who homered in the seventh inning for the Orioles' second run. "He doesn't ordinarily get sharp until the warm weather sets in."

The win was especially gratifying to the Orioles because Cuellar has become their "stopper" since early last season when Jim Palmer, nominal ace of the staff, developed arm trouble. He stopped the Orioles' three longest losing streaks in 1974 and Wednesday night gave them a win after they had lost three of their four previous games.

Kansas City defeated Oakland 6-2, Boston beat the New York Yankees 4-2, Texas topped the Chicago White Sox 14-4 and Minnesota whipped California 10-4 in other American League games.

The Orioles scored their first run off Jim Slaton in the sixth inning when Ken Singleton walked, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Don Baylor. Slaton gave up only six hits in going the distance but suffered his second loss against one victory.

Royals 6, A's 2

Harmon Killebrew started a three-run fourth-inning burst with a walk and also hit the 560th homer of his career for Kansas City, which dealt Oakland's Vida Blue his first loss after two wins. Nelson Briles pitched a five-hitter and struck out seven in gaining his first win. Sal Bando had two hits for the A's.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 2

Rookie Fred Lynn hit two solo homers and Carl Yastrzemski a two-run homer as Boston handed the Yankees their sixth loss in seven games. Rick Wise went the distance with a nine-hitter to complete his first game since April 13, 1974 and gain his first victory since June 23.

Rangers 14, White Sox 4

Jeff Burroughs hit two homers and drove in three runs and Willie Davis and Toby Harrah also had three hits each to lead Texas' 18-hit assault on Chicago's Wilbur Wood and two successors. Wood, a 20-game winner in each of the last three seasons, was ripped for eight hits and seven runs in two innings and lost his third straight game.

Twins 10, Angels 4

Bobby Darwin, Craig Kusick and Larry Hisle doubled in two runs each for Minnesota, which snapped a five-game losing streak. Bert Blyleven allowed California 10 hits and six walks but went the distance behind a 12-hit attack for his second straight win.

Another Kingston Run

While John Jay catcher Mike Spero waits for the throw that came too late, Kingston's Joe Primo (l) scores on his home run, during Wednesday's rout of Patriots. That's Paul Runge (5) trying to tell Primo he didn't have to slide. (Freeman photo)

Sawyers, Kingston Win

KINGSTON

Rich Ohno unintentionally second guessed his coach Wednesday afternoon, and the mixup resulted in an extra inning, 7-6 victory over Lourdes for Saugerties High and a share of the DCSL baseball lead.

With two men on base in the bottom of the eighth, Ohno missed the bunt sign flashed by coach Tony Vizzie. Instead he ripped a double that scored Bob Cargioli with the winning run.

Elswhere in the league, Kingston kept pace with the Sawyers by pounding John Jay, 11-2. Spackenkill beat Arlington, 3-1, Beacon edged Ketcham, 5-4, and Roosevelt whipped Poughkeepsie, 9-4.

"I was waiting for him when he got to third," said Vizzie afterward, but all's well that ends well in more than one respect.

The Sawyers started out with some heavy hitting that gave winner Tom Crane a 1-0 lead after three innings. But three doubles by the Warriors in the four-run sixth and a total of seven Saugerties' errors allowed the visitors to send it into overtime.

Cargioli singled and Tim Cole was hit by a pitch to set up Ohno's two-bagger in the eighth.

"I was disappointed in our sloppy play," Vizzie said, "but I was encouraged by our ability to come back."

Kingston treated John Jay's Rob Alley with contempt, driving him from the mound in the second inning after having mauled him for nine runs. Winning pitcher Joe Primo was the biggest offender with a three-run homer in the second and an RBI single in the first.

"Primo hurt his back and wasn't as sharp as usual," said KHS coach Ron Cole. The Maroon flinger still notched eight strikeouts in six innings while spacing six hits. Paul Latwatsch mopped up.

★ ★ ★

Jayvee hurlers Kevin Jordan of Kingston High and Steve Staekow of John Jay locked horns in an old fashioned pitchers' duel here Wednesday. Jordan flipped a three-hitter, and Staekow had a twohitter, and it took a suicide squeeze in the sixth inning to give the Patriots a 1-0 victory.

It was a well-played game in all respects, but the bunt beat Jordan's ten-strikeout performance. The loss dropped the Little Maroons to 1-1 on the year.

New York Shades Ulster in Tenth, 4-3

STONE RIDGE

Walks were the downfall of Ulster County Community College's baseball team Wednesday as the Senators wasted an early lead and eventually fell a 4-3 victim to visiting New York City CC in ten innings.

Ed Savarese, the second UCCC pitcher of the game and the loser, walked the Bees' starter Joe Grzezzka to start the tenth. Three more walks in the inning, the final two by Ulster's Fred Ziehl, forced Grzezzka in with the deciding run.

Ulster coach Bob Speirs said, "We're playing good ball, but the walks did us in. And we're not hitting well enough to overcome that."

Miguel Martinez spotted New York a run in the second when he issued two free passes and was nicked for a single. Ulster got right back on top in the bottom of the frame, taking advantage of four NYCCC errors and a run-scoring single by Bob Marz to jump ahead, 4-1.

That should have been enough right there except that Martinez lost his stuff in the fifth when two more walks and another single led to three New York runs. In all, the Ulster mound staff gave away nine bases on balls.

Grzezzka, who struck out nine against five walks, blanked the Senators over the final eight innings in recording a four-hitter.

UCCC Netmen Blank Westcos

VALHALLA

The Ulster County Community College tennis team got the Mid-Hudson Conference season off to a good start Wednesday by whipping Westchester CC, 9-0.

Only the first two singles battles were even close as the Senators took inspiration from co-captain Ron Cicio's opening three set win over Ted Scopes to post the shutout. Cicio, down two games to four in the final set, struggled back to sweep the last four games from Scopes and capture a 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 triumph.

John Brewer also extended his UCCC opponent to three sets, but John Ivankovic had too much for the Viking to handle. Ivankovic won, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4 and the Senators were on their way.

Rich Short, the other UCCC co-captain, defeated Doug Cross, 6-1, 6-4; Ken Baxter blasted Joe Kerton, 6-0, 6-0; Don Boyce stopped Bob Romano, 6-1, 6-0; and Jim Koscis took a 6-1, 6-1 match from Doug McKenna.

The Senators also dominated the doubles. Cicio and Ivankovic turned back Scopes and Brewer, 6-4, 6-2, Short and Boyce beat Cross and Kerton, 6-1, 6-0, and Koscis and Vince Giovenco defeated Romano and McKenna, 6-3, 6-0. Giovenco also won an exhibition singles match in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

Ulster, which lost its season opener to Nassau, improved to 1-1.

Coleman Golfers Outstanding

KINGSTON

Coach Bill DuBois' Coleman High golfers made like early-season Johnny Millers in their 1975 Ulster County Athletic League opener against Pine Bush Wednesday at The Twaalfskill Club links.

Led by Brian Smith Jr.'s 2-over-par 37, the Statesmen drubbed the Bushmen, 152-185, with what may have been an all-time team low for the UCAL.

Backing up Smith's 37 were A. J Maneen and Brian Croswell with 38's and Howard Shambo with 39.

A quartet of under-40 scores is a rarity in UCAL golf, leading Coach DuBois to speculate it may be a new league record. "We're going to have to do some researching on the subject," he said, mindful of some of the great Onteora performances of the past.

Tom Collins' 43 and Chris Bement's 44 were the best Pine Bush efforts.

Meanwhile, the long, windy Rondout layout at Accord was a good test for the Onteora High team. So was host Rondout. It took a good team effort by the Indians and a fine medalist 38 by John Carlson to give the Indians a 167-174 victory in their opener.

Jeff Buton added 42, Bill Kennedy 45 and Tom Powers 42 for Onteora. Billy Brush, who with Billy Collins gives Rondout one of the most formidable one-two punches in the UCAL, posted 39. Collins and Steinhofer had 44s.

Elsewhere in UCAL, Liberty edged Red Hook 193-199 and Ellenville's match at Fallsburgh was postponed.

Red Hook had a few problems on its home course as only Bob Skelly (43) and Ken Fowler (49) could crack 50. Mitch Etess led Liberty with 42 and Joe Stolinas was next at 45.

NP's Ferrante Fans 14

RHINEBECK

Pete Ferrante fired a three-hitter Wednesday, stopping host Rhinebeck High on 14 strikeouts, as New Paltz racked up its third straight victory this one by a 6-2 count, over non-league opposition.

Ferrante dueled Larry Wooden and Henry Meara and started a rally in the fourth frame that led to the eventual winning run. Ferrante's single, a Rhinebeck error and a walk set the stage for Roger Plantier who drilled a two-run single to give the winners a 3-1 lead.

Woodin lasted five innings and recorded 10 strikeouts before giving way to Meara. New Paltz clipped the Indian reliever for two more runs in the sixth to put the game out of reach.

New Paltz is now 3-4 on the season.

Rachid Walker All-M-HC

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College's sparkplug backcourtman Rachid Walker has been named to the Mid-Hudson Conference's all-star basketball team for 1974-75.

Walker is joined by three members of conference champion Westchester Community: James Burns, Lew Michaux, and Allen Thompson. Also on the club is Rockland's Bill McGeorge.

Thompson and McGeorge were the top vote-getters.

Carl Mabry of Ulster along with Pete Eason and Larry Johnson of Post, Rusty Smith of Orange, and Ron Ezzie of Rockland comprised the second team.

Walker averaged 19.2 points per game and handed off a team-leading 156 assists in directing the Senators to a 17-6 overall record. UCCC was 8-4 in conference play. Rachid is a freshman.

Mabry scored nearly 12 points a game and led the club in rebounding with 257. He is reportedly deciding between Albany State and Oneonta State as his future school.

The fastest way to any teller is a single line

Now, not only can you save money at Heritage, but you can also save valuable time.

With our Single Line Teller System you'll be able to transact your banking business faster than ever before and be on your way. That's a promise.

This system has been adopted at the Wall Street office in Kingston and the Main Street office in Beacon because of increased traffic and the need to expedite customer service.

This new system has been adopted at the Main Office because of increased traffic and the need to expedite customer service.

The Single Teller Line System enables a customer to move to the first available teller rather than lining up at random at a specific window and perhaps spending more time than necessary at the bank while someone else is involved in a lengthy transaction. This system also insures additional privacy — with no one standing over your shoulder while you bank.

The fastest way to any teller is a single line. You'll see.

Trojan Leads Onteora Race

ASHOKAN

Bill Martin of Troy was the winner of the 4.2 mile open division race as the Onteora Runners Club inaugurated its 1975 season at the Ashokan Reservoir.

Martin beat Jeff Fay of New Windsor by 11 seconds after running neck and neck for three miles. Dave Senechalle of New Paltz was third and Barry Hopkins of Catskill took fourth.

In the race for those over the age of 40 (called the Masters Division) Bob Rother of Poughkeepsie outdistanced Jim Holland of Poughkeepsie by better than three minutes for the 4.2 mile course.

The Wallace sisters of Tillson swept the girls two mile event. Kathy was the winner finishing ahead of Donna and Tina.

The joggers race, in which runners estimate how long they expect to cover a two mile course, then are placed according to how close their estimate was, ended in a tie between Dick Vincent and Jon Powell, both of whom were 18 seconds off their predicted times.

Any area runner interested in joining the Onteora club should contact Bernie Stahl of Olivebridge.

AARP Members Hear Consultant

NEW PALTZ

Members of Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons, heard an insurance consultant stress the need for hospitalization insurance to supplement Medicare, which alone is not sufficient to cover hospital bills for the elderly.

Lawrence Bermann, consultant for AARP group insurance plans, stressed the benefits derived from the various plans offered by AARP health insurance at the recent meeting, held in the VFW building on Route 208.

A question-and-answer period followed his speech and Bermann distributed pamphlets describing health insurance benefits.

Officers nominated for the coming year were introduced. The election takes place at the May meeting and installation at the June meeting.

The chapter's monthly Dutch treat dinner will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 20, at Casa Mia, Route 9W, in Highland. Contact Mrs. Florence Wright of Hurley for reservations as soon as possible.

The arts and crafts group will hold its second meeting of the month at 1 p.m. on Monday, April 28, at the VFW building.

A raffle will be held at the next chapter meeting at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, May 5, at the VFW building, with proceeds going for a loudspeaker system.

The chapter welcomed back Joseph and Elsie Lorenzo, past and present chapter presidents, from a three month visit to Florida, where Lorenzo was recuperationg from a serious auto accident.

Laws Benefit Farm Workers

NEW PALTZ

New amendments to federal law of benefit to farm workers have been received from the United States Department of Labor, according to Program Funding, Inc. of New Paltz.

According to Katherine Gordon, P.F.I.'s Ulster County based project director, increased restrictions have been placed upon labor contractors, also known as crew leaders, through a set of new amendments to the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act of 1963.

Crew leaders are now required to fully inform workers about living and working conditions; to explain any pay deductions in a manner clearly understandable to the workers; and to pay them promptly. Leaders are prohibited from forcing workers to make purchases exclusively from contractors or other persons and are subject to criminal prosecution if found to be keeping workers bound in servitude because of debt.

Perhaps the most significant amendment, according to Gordon, is that which expressly allows farm workers to bring civil suits against oppressive contractors, also prohibiting retaliatory action against workers.

5

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature.

Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds mature in 5 years.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, maintaining the strength it has shown recently, opened higher today in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 72-point gainer the past seven sessions, was up 0.86 to 816.57 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 286 to 185, among the 581 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to about 1,110,000 shares.

The market has risen this week on further indications the recession might be reaching a bottom. Business inventories have been trimmed sharply while sales have increased. Also, private industry payrolls have increased.

Three Dem Hopefuls Attack Kissinger Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Democratic presidential hopefuls for 1976 today attacked the foreign policy of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

In addresses to the nation's newspaper editors, Sens. Henry M. Jackson, Wash., and Lloyd M. Bentsen, Tex., accused Kissinger of paying lip service to the concept of bipartisanship in foreign policy but not really seeking to achieve it.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, Ariz., criticized Kissinger for the "siren song" of saying that America's stature was irreparably damaged by events in Southeast Asia.

The three Democrats addressed the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors which was both the host and the guest of President Ford Wednesday and which was to hear from Kissinger later today.

Jackson said Kissinger has consistently withheld from Congress vital information about the bargains he has made around the world. Bentsen said Kissinger called for bipartisanship but presented Congress with foreign policy on a take-it or leave-it basis "wrapped up with a pink ribbon around it."

All three criticized Ford only moderately and only indirectly. Udall, in fact, praised him for deflating the pumped-up importance of the presidency.

On Wednesday, the editors recieved a report from its Ethics Committee saying that newspapers may best be able to avoid government supervision by soliciting criticism from outsiders.

The report praised the Concept Press Councils, where persons with a grievance against the press can get a hearing from an outside group of volunteer monitors.

Brothers Arrested

SPRING GLEN

Two Essex, N.J. brothers who operate a flea market there were arrested Tuesday afternoon on burglary charges as they emerged from the cellar of a building at a Spring Glen bungalow colony.

State police said the men, Craig and Edward Majestic, age 21 and 37 respectively, told them they travel around the countryside looking for abandoned buildings from which they collect items for their flea market. The brothers said they thought no one owned the buildings, police related.

Charged with third degree burglary, the two were taken before Wawarsing Town Justice Joseph Polonsky, who released them in their own recognizance pending further court action.

Olive Exemption Raised for Seniors

SHOKAN

The Olive Town Board has voted to grant its senior citizen residents a 50 percent exemption on town property taxes if their income is less than $6,500 per year.

The action followed a public hearing on the proposal held earlier this week.

Previously, only those residents with an income of less than $6,000 per year were eligible for the tax exemption.

In addition, the town board has imposed a two-year residency requirement for the partial tax exemptions.

Criminal Mischief

KINGSTON

Three young area men were charged with fourth degree criminal mischief early today by city police after they allegedly smashed a window at the Kingston Tea Garden, 298 Wall Street.

Charged were Cesare Caprotti, 23, of 141 Washington Avenue; John Marsil, 21, of 56 Elizabeth Street; and Philip Abdallah, 23, of Lucas Avenue Extension.

Following arraignment, each was released on $25 bail.

ALBERT SHANKER AT NEW PALTZ
(Freeman Photo)

Shanker: 'Politics Is Power'

By Tim Schuster

NEW PALTZ

Albert Shanker, labor leader in the edcuation field for 15 years, told a SUNY at New Paltz audience Wednesday night that "politics is not a process of rationality; it's a process of power."

Alternating between exhorting college professors to become a truly organized group and recounting labor struggles of teachers in the early 1960s, Shanker also put forth some admittedly "make work" solutions to part of the current economic depression.

He said that the concept of educare, based on the principles that sent millions of ex-GIs to college after World War II, could work today in the United States.

While noting that when the teacher shortages of the 1950s and 60s precluded the possibility of introducing more education into the American system, he said that the door is now wide open to implement such programs as early childhood education; reduction of class sizes; beginning internship programs for teachers; and making education available to people who never before could manage it.

"We have known for a long time that we needed to reach kids early," he said. "We now have the capability of doing it, with no excuses."

On the labor front, "Most of us think collective bargaining has been around forever in education," he stated, adding that the first contract arising from collective bargaining was signed in 1962 in New York City.

He addressed what he called the "snobbery" and "prestige" that was reflected across the country in teachers who thought themselves to be traditional professionals. "Our snobbery consisted of the fact we were unwilling to discuss the reality of the situation," he said, citing the cold, hard facts of power politics.

Shanker told tales of himself early in his teaching career performing such menial tasks as "snow duty" (hollering at kids outside the building) and "A & P patrol," making sure kids didn't shoplift at the store across the street.

He commented that teachers were in a field that demanded collective bargaining, as large numbers worked for one employer.

Shanker said that the soft life enjoyed by teachers during the teacher shortages led to some advances because they were sought after, "but when the world changed, we were not well equipped to fight."

He also said the teachers should maintain their strong liaison with other labor groups. "If it weren't for the power of organized labor outside teaching, it might be that teachers would not enjoy these rights today," he intoned.

As for the future, Shanker proposed that the aforementioned upgrading of public education be continued, mentioning that our educational aspirations had risen greatly from World War II to the present and sshould continue to do so.

Recognizing the economic structures at present, and noting that the power of collective bargaining could not be as strong when the birth rate was declining, seniority and tenure were in effect, and there was little teacher turnover, he called for new levels of opportunity in education for Americans, benefitting both the teachers and the ntion as a whole.

Speaking of professional educators specifically, he said, "College people are the least organized in the country; they're insulated from the real world," pointing to the fact that teachers in the state university system were only one-third organized.

You could be a very powerful group," he stated. "At the present time, you're extremely weak . . . A union is a do-it-yourself kit: it's not something from the outside . . . You can't wait for something magical to happen."

And one "positive" aspect Shanker found to the economic depression: "It's no longer necessary to talk about snobbery or professionalism to teachers . . . Now more than ever we can see society is made up of power groups . . . We live off the productivity of all people in our society."

Sen. Mason Chides NAACP Over Stand on Feraca Case

By Carl Graham

ALBANY

State Senator Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) has strongly criticized the Ulster County NAACP chapter for seeking recovery of some $40,000 Joseph Feraca reportedly drew as a Kingston police officer while serving simultaneously as a member of the Kingston school board.

"The whole episode reflects no credit on NAACP," Mason said. "It is an organization with high ideals and has done much good, but this is a blot on its record."

The NAACP chapter has asked the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court to rule on its contention that Feraca served illegally for four ears as a member of the Kingston police department and is seeking recovery of the salary paid him during that time. Feraca citing mounting legal debts, resigned from the Kingston board of education April 3 in response to a previous suit by NAACP.

"Joe Feraca is the kind of high-caliber individual we should have on our school boards," Mason said. "He has done his job in an outstanding manner."

Mason also took a swipe at the State Education Department, which had ruled that Feraca couldn't serve on both the police department and the school board at the same time.

"The blame should be placed on officials of the State Education Deparment, especially the commissioner and his subordinates, who aided and abetted this despicable act in hounding this dedicated man. All citizens who respect a man of honor should rally behind Joe Feraca."

A law passed by the state legislature since the original NAACP suit was filed allows police officers and firemen to serve simultaneously on school boards, and Feraca has filed a nominating petition for one of four board seats being contested in the May 6 school district election.

State Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th Dist.), who sponsored the bill that permits police and firemen to serve on school boards, also criticized the latest NAACP action.

"If they don't withdraw their lawsuit he (Feraca) should file a countersuit," Schermerhorn said. "I think this is a disgraceful thing."

Schermerhorn said he would check with State Senate leaders "to see if something can be done about this. We are making second class citizens of our police."

More than 450 volunteer workers crowded the New York State Armory Wednesday night to launch the UMCA's $2 million building completion fund campaign. Members of the Y "family" have already pledged $194,000. More than 8,000 prospects will be visited by volunteers. Participating in the kickoff dinner were: Francis Koenig, mayor Kingston; Dr. Jack Roosa, teams chairman; Christus Larios, campaign chairman; Wallace Pfeiffer, Y president; and Peter J. Savago, chairman, Ulster County Legislature. (Freeman photo)

Broadway East 'Package' . . . Salvage Session Is Called

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has called the Common Council into special session Monday night in what city officials hope will be the first step in salvaging what was once a "package plan" for the construction of a shopping plaza in Broadway East and 100 units of senior citizen housing on the site of the abandoned St. Anne's Convent on Broadway and Orchard Street.

The objectives, according to Mayor Koenig, are still the same, it's just that in the case of the senior citizen development and to a lesser extent, Broadway East, different people will be doing it.

Granada Builders, Inc. which brought in the package plan last Dec. 6 is still the vehicle for the senior citizen complex although the principles in that corporation are all new.

The people who used to be Granada Builders Inc. of Port Ewen are now Called Hurley Realty and they'll be the developers on Broadway East.

Granada Inc. is now headquartered at 104 Smith Avenue with Israel Slutsky as its president, George Diamond, an architect, as its vice president and Martin Aaron, president of Fowler and Keith Hardware as its secretary-treasurer.

Thomas Sentar, former president of Granada, is now president of Hurley Realty Inc.

City officials hope the worst thing that will happen with this process of corporate chess is that the projects will be delayed a few months. The special meeting is aimed at expediting matters.

The question put to the mayor was "what happened?"

The Freeman had received word from reliable sources of financial difficulties with Granada as far back as two weeks ago.

Contacting Sentar revealed only that there were "some problems" that were being worked on by Sentar and his associates.

The Freeman later learned that the problem involved some $275,000 that Granada didn't have as a sort of down-payment on the senior citizen housing project to satisfy federal officials.

Koenig as much as confirmed that report when questioned by the Freeman. He said that Robert Smith of Hueytown, Ala., a member of the board of directors of Granada, had been in charge of the senior citizen operation, (Sentar was and continues to be in charge of the Broadway East part) but that Smith became "seriously ill" after the first of the year and did not "follow up" on financing.

As a reslut, Koenig said, when the money was needed (apparently this spring) it wasn't available.

Koenig feels now that both projects are back on the track.

Granada's new principles have a 30-day option with the Order of St. Anne for purchase of the property at a cost of $125,000 plus the $2,000 option.

Sentar said he expects to sign a lease with a major supermarket for Broadway East within the next few weeks.

The Zoning Board of Appeals is expected to grant two variances for Granada, one allowing a building of 58-feet in height (as opposed to the limit of 42 feet), another reducing the parking requirements to 25 percent of the total units as opposed to the city's required 50 percent.

Koenig will ask that the property be rezoned from C-2 (commercial) to R-5 (residential).

In an unrelated matter, he will also ask the aldermen to approve agreements with the state clearing the way for the reconstruction of Albany Avenue this coming summer.

The aldermen will convene at 7:30 p.m.

Opinions Sought On BOCES Plant

ALBANY

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) will accept written opinions from the public until May 12 on the Ulster County BOCES application for its sewerage permit.

BOCES has filed its application at the 50 Wolf Road, Albany office of DEC, where it is available for public inspection. The application calls for a discharge of about 3,600 gallons of sanitary effluent per day into the groundwaters.

If enough interest is generated, the DEC may hold a public hearing on the sewerage question.

A final issuance of permit to BOCES will follow the application review; development of limiting conditions; development of monitoring and reporting mechanisms; and consideraton of all public comments.

Further information may be obtained by writing: William L. Garvey, P.E., Director Bureau of Standards and Compliance, Division of Pure Waters, New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, 50 Wolf Road, Albany, N.Y., 12233.

State Audit Department Critical of City's Bidding Practices

KINGSTON

The State Department of Audit and Control has released its audit of the city of Kingston, the city laboratory and the Urban Renewal Agency, noting, in the case of the city, that a number of violations it pointed out thee years ago have not been corrected.

The audit released in early April covered the period from Jan. 1, 1972 to Dec. 31, 1973.

The statement "similiar comment was included in our previous report of examination" appeared five times along with criticism of the city's competitive bidding practices and its failure to inventory its assets and its lack of, in some cases, itemization for vouchers paid.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig said he has not had the opportunity to review the report—it was delivered to him on April 7—but that the city would comply with its recommendations.

Most of those recommendations deal with bookkeeping procedures— the suggestions that the city inventory its assets and keep a closer record of supplies, for instance—but the recommendations on competitive bidding deal with what appear to be direct violations of the law, although city officials say there were extenuating circumstances.

"Except as otherwise provided by law (in the case of emergencies) all purchase contracts in excess of $1,500 should be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder after public advertisement for bids," is the law quoted by the auditors.

It refers to two cases where that law was not complied with by the city.

The fire department purchased $4,412.13 worth of fuel oil for its firehouses in 1972 and $2,834.92 in 1973.

The public works department purchased $5,228.50 worth of gravel for the Kingston Point Landfill in 1972.

The gravel purchase is out of the ordinary, while the fuel oil purchases appear fairly routine.

Charles J. Cole, superintendent of public works, said that Mayor Koenig ordered extra cover for the landfill in 1973 since at that time it was projected that it would be depleted by the end of that year.

Gravel purchases had averaged about $500 a year previous to that (and about the same since) but skyrocketed in 1973. Cole said the gravel came from a gravel bank on Abeel Street owned by Ed Wennersten and leased by the city.

Cole said the city did not go to competitive bid for two reasons: it did not know how much it would need and he doubted if any other gravel bank in the area would be able to meet its needs.

The city has been purchasing its fuel oil for its fire stations (without bid) from most of the dealers in Kingston for several years. Asked who got the contracts, Acting Chief William Schreiber said, "about every dealer in town."

Figures released by Mayor Koenig show that Garraghan Oil was the leader with $1,501.27 (for one year) for Rondout Station in 1972 and $884.73 for 1973, a total of $2,386.

Kingston Coal and Oil Inc., servicing Union and Wiltwyck Stations, sold the city $1,450.35 worth of oil in 1972 and another $1,290.14 in 1973 for a total of $2,740.49.

Ballard Oil Company was next with a total of $1,446.95 for Cornell and Cordts Hose while Austin R. Newcombe realized $673.51 for supplying Wicks Hose.

The report also noted that the city recovered $3,727.26 from its bonding company as a result of investigations into missing funds in the treasurer's office during the summer of 1973. A check for $493.74 was being held as evidence by the police department.

The city's failure to advertise for bids on property it owns (taken in lieu of taxes) was again criticized. The city does not advertise for bid all the property it owns, reported the auditors.

There was no criticism of the bookkeeping procedures of either the city lab or the urban renewal agency.

Copies of the audit are available in the city clerk's office for public inspection.

Property Auctioned

KINGSTON

Money For Vets

KINGSTON

The Veterans Administration is authorized to pay an annual clothing allowance of $150 to veterans whose service-incurred disabilities require them to use wheel chairs, artificial limbs, braces, or other devices which tend to wear and tear clothing. The allowance is not taxable and should not be reported on income tax returns.

VA advises veterans who plan to move to notify both the post office and the VA of both old and new addresses. Any veterans benefit checks will then follow and not be returned to the VA.

Educational loans of up to $600 per academic year are now available for veterans attending school under the GI Bill. The new loan program was established in the recently enacted Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974. Interest on loans is eight percent, commencing with the beginning date of payment.

Food Day Is Proclaimed

Today's effort in more than 20 states to warn people against tough-skinned tomatoes, sugary cereals, high food costs and tooth decay is called Food Day, similar to the ecology concern of Earth Day several years ago.

It is the creation of Michael Jacobsen, a Washington biologist who began promoting it on a shoestring six months ago.

Mayor Frank Rizzo has officially proclaimed Food Day in Philadelphia. In Boston a traveling van announced town meetings on food questions. Some students at Stanford University in California are fasting for one day in "sort of an Earth Day for the tummy."

In Washington a small Food Day staff, supported by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, where Jacobsen is employed, issued documents contending that the food industry's processing and promotion of foods tends to make consumers poorer in both nutrition and dollars.

One of Jacobsen's particular complaints is the breeding of tomatoes for thick skins so they won't be bruised by picking machines and in shipping.

Thin-skinned tomatoes in season are better, he argues, "But because large supermarket chains find it easier to deal with a single large grower, though he may be thousands of miles away, we end up with hard tomatoes year-round."

The Food Day organizers say Americans should eat less food high in sugar and fat. More fresh fruits, vegetables and whole grains would help "stem the tide of chronic diseases" like tooth decay, diabetes, heart trouble and intestinal cancer, Jacobsen said.

College Student Critical

NEW PALTZ

A 21-year-old State University College at New Paltz student was critically injured Wednesday when he toppled from the back of a car on which he was riding and struck his head on the pavement in a campus parking lot.

Kenneth Glickman of 1571 West 8th Street, Brooklyn, was taken from the scene by the New Paltz Rescue Squad and was admitted to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie, where he was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit today.

State police, who investigated the mishap, said Glickman was riding on the trunk of a car operated by another student, Brian Park, 19, of White Plains. The car was going at a low rate of speed when Glickman slipped from the trunk and struck his head, police said.

The mishap occurred at about 5 p.m.

SPCA Burglary

KINGSTON

A 17-year-old youth formerly employed at the Ulster County SPCA was arrested Wednesday by Ulster County Sheriff's Department detectives and charged with burglary and petit larceny in connection with an alleged April 2 break-in at the SPCA building.

Detectives said the youth, who was not identified because of his eligibility for youthful offender status, allegedly pried a rear door at the SPCA building on Brabrant Road and took over $100 in cash.

The youth had worked at the SPCA until March 31, after which he failed to show up at work, He later quit, detectives said.

Following arraignment on third degree burglary and petit larceny charges, the youth was released in his own recognizance pending further court action.

Probation Sentence In Ellenville Theft

KINGSTON

A Stone Ridge woman arrested with four others last August in connection with the theft of over $40,000 from the Public Loan Company in Ellenville was sentenced Wednesday to five years probation and directed to make restitution of the approximately $800 she allegedly stole.

Mrs. Mildred Christiana, 44, of Whitelands Road had previously pleaded guilty to third degree grand larceny in connection with the case.

Prior to the sentencing by County Judge Raymond J. Mino, defense attorney Allen Zweibel asked him to take into consideration Mrs. Christiana's cooperation with authorities, the fact that she helps support a family, including two minors, and that it was her first arrest.

The district attorney's office recommended a probationary sentence, with the stipulation that restitution be made.

In passing sentence, Mino noted that a probationary report suggested that Mrs. Christiana "was a patsy for Mr. Knight."

David Knight, 24, of Ellenville, the former manager of the loan company and Mrs. Christiana's supervisor (she was his secretary), was sentenced earlier this year to one year in the ULster County Jail in connection with the case.

For Friday, April 18, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll do things for the sake of expediency that are not to your advantage. Be patient. Time is your ally. Shortcuts will work against you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Talking too freely about a confidential matter could be your downfall. Your words could haunt you later via "instant replay" from an unpleasant source.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't lend anything to a friend you've had trouble with before over something borrowed. This leopard hasn't changed his spots.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you challenge persons in authority today, you'll only tempt them to show you just how much muscle they really have.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) You'll be called to task for a responsibility you neglected. Don't attempt to sweep it under the rug again.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A pal is getting peeved because of an old obligation you've overlooked. Square things as soon as possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In partnership situations today, be certain both partners are in accord about the goal or a serious rift may ensue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Subordinates will rebel today if you treat them in an arrogant manner. Consider their feelings. Lead by example.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your conclusions regarding a shared interest are inaccurate. Some information needed for a valid appraisal being withheld.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're priming the pump for a problem if you ignore your mate's viewpoint in a decision affecting the family.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It will be difficult for subordinates to please you today. You don't know your own mind. Make sure orders are clear before voicing them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll soft-pedal your principles where the youngsters are concerned today and indulge them too much. Careful — you can't buy their respect.

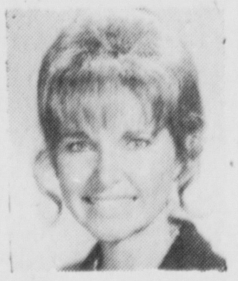

your birthday

April 18, 1975

Events will lead you to make an important adjustment in your lifestyle this year. At first unwelcome, it will later prove advantageous.

DUTCH: (Q.) What do you think of a boy who asks a girl to dance but doesn't pay for her ticket? A friend of my brother asked me, but he made it clear that I would have to buy my own ticket. Money isn't the problem, but it bothers me. We are both 14. — Curious in Florida

(A.) I think you have found an honest boy, and at least you should give him credit for that.

Now, all you have to do is decide if his way of doing things is acceptable to you and, if so, whether an evening with him would seem to be worth the price of the ticket.

I personally think it is fine for couples to go Dutch.

ALL: (Q.) I have been going with Steve for about a year. He is cute, and is nice to me. However, when we are with friends, he looks at other girls and doesn't look at me; but when we are alone in his car, all he does is kiss me and say he's sorry.

I believe he's sorry, but when he comes over to my house all he does is kiss me, and if I have to go upstairs for something he follows me and throws me on the bed and starts kissing me. One day he asked me to go all the way and I did. Now I'm afraid I'm pregnant. — Worried in Ohio

(A.) You and Steve have spent ALL your time, it seems to me, looking for excuses to get into trouble. If it turns out that you ARE pregnant, tell your parents, and ask them to help you. Tell them it's your fault as well as Steve's.

I hope other boys and girls who read your story will profit from it by realizing that there are better and safer ways to spend time together than your and Steve's way.

Jury Deliberation Begins In Connally Milk Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal jury today began deliberation in the bribery trail of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

The jury recieved the case after a charge by U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. that warned them to consider carefully the testimony of Jake Jacobsen, the prosecution's chief witness who said he gave Connally payoffs totalling $10,000.

At the same time Hart told the jurors to give careful consideration to the evidence that Connally did not tell the grand jury about a key meeting with Jacobsen where the money was discussed.

Hart reminded the jury that Jacobsen admitted lying to an earlier grand jury investigation and that he was now testifying against Connally in return for a reduced sentence in the case.

"The testimony of an informer must be examinied and weighed with greater care than an ordinary witness," Hart said referring to Jacobsen.

He said they should consider "behavior and demeanor of the witness on the stand to determine whether he impresses you as a truth telling individual and whether he has any motive against telling the truth."

Apparently referring to Connally, Hart said, "False or inconsistent statements by the defendant are not evidence of guilt, but can be interpreted by you, if you so conclude, to be an indiciation of his consciousness of guilt."

Hart said that Connally can be found guilty of accepting the payoff "even if the intent is not to corrupt because consciously or unconsciously it brings about favoritism."

He added that the law prohibits any compensation of a public official beyond his salary regardless of the purpose.

"To find the defendant guilty you must find beyond a reasonable doubt that as a public official he received the money for himself," Hart said.

If convicted, Connally could face a maximum term of four years in prison and a fine of $20,000.

Throughout the trial there were five men and seven women on the Connally jury, but without explanation today one of the men did not appear and a woman alternate was added to the jury.

Connally brushed a tear from his eye Wednesday as his defense lawyer Edward Bennett Williams emotionally pleaded with the jury to end a year of anguish for the silver-haired Texan and affirm his "honor and integrity."

To accept Jacobsen's testimony, Williams said in his summation, would be to take the word of "an alleged swindler, a self admitted perjurer and a scoundrel" over that of a man whose honesty was testified to by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and evangelist Billy Graham during the trial.

New CIA Charter Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Clark Clifford, one of the men who wrote the Central Intelligence Agency charter in 1947, has urged Congress to write a new one.

Clifford also urged a congressional CIA oversight committee and, without being more specific, said "I also outlined what I believe were improvements in the intelligence system."

Speaking to reporters after three hours of testifying before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, Clifford said:

"My major recommendation was that the act creating the CIA, which is more than 20 years old, has become obsolete. I believe that Congress would be doing a public service if they would create a new law."

Clifford denied that either President John F. Kennedy or President Lyndon B. Johnson ever recommended that any foreign head of state be assassinated by the CIA. "There is no merit for the charge ..." he said.

"In seven years on the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, I never heard any charge that the United States was engaged in the assassination of any foreign head of state."

Clifford worked for Democratic Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Kennedy and Johnson. LBJ made him defense secretary.

Clifford said Truman, who was president when the CIA was created, never intended that the agency engage in police or domestic spying activities. He said he went into great detail about why and how the CIA was created.

Clifford, chairman of the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board from 1961 to 1968, said "I went into great detail about President Kennedy and the Bay of Pigs situation. It was he who set up that board because he felt he had been misled and he did not want that to happen again."

North Carolina Defeats ERA

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — The North Carolina Legislature Wednesday eliminated any possiblity of passage of the proposed equal rights amendment in 1975, rejecting it by a 62-57 house vote.

Thirty-four states have ratified the proposed 27th amendment, which would prohibit discrimination based on sex, and 38 must approve it before it can become part of the Constitution.

Only Illinois, Missouri and Florida are still actively considering ratification this year.

"If it's dead in North Carolina, it's dead in 1975," said Peggy Lampl, executive director of the League of Women Voters, in Washington. "If we get two or three more out of the ones alive, I have no question but what it'll pass next year."

The deadline for ratification is March, 1979. By failing to receive final ratification this year, the ERA will set a record of having been considered longer than any previous amendment.

In other states:

Florida: The senate rules committee, its all-male membership now split 9-8 against ERA, will vote Tuesday on whether to put the amendment on the floor. The state house approved ERA last week by three votes.

Illinois: The house judiciary committee voted 18-2 Wednesday in favor of ERA, but the big question to be taken up next week on the floor is whether house leaders will require a three-fifths vote, instead of a simple majority, for final passage. The state senate three-fifths requirement has kept the amendment stalled in Illinois.

Missouri: Hundreds of persons on both sides of the issue crammed a state senate committee session Wednesday as it deliberated whether to send the house-passed ratification to the senate floor. Carolyn Bond, wife of Gov. Christopher Bond, sent a statement supporting the amendment.

Louisiana: Rep. Edward Booker said Wednesday he will introduce a bill to ratify ERA when the legislature convenes next week. Lousiana has rejected ERA three times in the past three years.

Youth Gangs on the Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public school officials from New York City, Philadelphia and Los Angeles are talking of a resurgence of youth street gangs that contributes to increasing violence in the school system.

The gang activity appears to involve urban areas, the officials said, and staff members and students alike are becoming intimidated.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee investigating school violence and vandalism, Irving Anker of the New York City Board of Education said Wednesday more than 350 gangs operate in his city. The "verified" membership is 7,000, Anker said, but other estimates range up to 20,000.

The gangs, Anker said, "have a name, a formal organizational structure with a martial or quasimilitary chain of command, a uniform or colors, distinctive insignia and an acknowledged war lord or leader."

The age of gang members in New York, he said, usually ranges from 11 to 18. In Los Angeles, said Jerry Halverson, associate superintendent of Schools, the age of members in 143 gangs can range from 11 to 25 years.

Most gangs are ethnically homogenous, Anker said, and have moved from the original "benign" image of a group established in a certain neighborhood or "turf" into more dangerous and violent activities.

Recently, he said, gang activities have included homicide, rape, extortion, narcotics trafficking, vandalism, and kidnaping. He estimated 200 gang related homicides in a single year in New York.

Oswald J. Giulii, an assistant school superintendent in Philadelphia, said 43 youths were involved in gangland killings last year and more than 250 seriously injured.

"On an average day," he said, "approximately 15,000 of our 60,000 high school pupils are absent from school, many because of gang activity."

Search Continues

BOSTON (UPI) — Police were hopeful for an early break today in their hunt for a stolen $1.5 million Rembrandt portrait.

"We have to be careful because we don't want that painting destroyed. We don't want anyone that's giving or may have given information to be killed," Leroy Chase, a deputy police superintendent, said Wednesday."

The search was centered in the Boston metropolitan area.

The painting of a young woman believed to be Rembrandt's sister was stolen at gunpoint Monday from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts by two bandits. They escaped in a getaway car driven by a accomplice after pistol-whipping a guard.

Chase said it way "always possible" that a threat might be made to destroy the portrait or kill an informant.

He declined to say if ransom had been asked for the painting, which art experts value as high as $1.5 million.

Detectives recovered the getaway car a few blocks from the museum. After the robbery, police broadcast a bulletin that described the thieves as two men in their late 20s, one with long hair and a brown cap.
